President Signs Trade Program to Rule to '51

Nation Gave Out 5 Billions in Year Gifts and Other Grants Made to Foreign Countries

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—President Truman today signed into law an extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program until 1951. He said it will aid "expanded world trade at a time when it is most urgently needed."

The legislation, extending the law for the sixth time since it was first enacted in 1934, gives the President a free-hand in working out tariff-cutting treaties with other nations.

Under the measure, the President can agree to cut U. S. import duties on articles from other countries where those countries make similar concessions to the United States.

The extension is until June 12, 1951.

Cordell Hull, former secretary of state and credited with originating the trade agreements principle in 1934, was present to watch the President sign the bill.

Making one of his public appearances and showing effects of his long illness, Hull walked into the White House with the aid of a cane to join other notables. It was Hull's first visit to the White House since V-J Day.

In a statement, Mr. Truman said that through this wise and far-reaching legislation, the United States reaffirms its pressing forward toward expanded world trade at a time when such action is most urgently needed."

Mr. Truman said this country looks forward to a reestablishment of economic balance in the world and added:

"Only such a world economy can we foresee the maintenance of adequate and rising standards of living when our programs of financial assistance terminate."

He called upon Congress for prompt action to make effective the permanent charter for an international trade organization, completed a year and a half ago with representatives of more than 50 countries.

Such approval by Congress, he said, will show that the U. S. is prepared to do its share in establishing economic relations "on a sound competitive basis for the mutual well-being of all peoples."

Before final passage of the reciprocal trade extension, Hull said in a letter to the Senate that it is "an indispensable cornerstone of enduring peace based on international cooperation upon the success of which our own security and prosperity depend."

Germany was listed as the chief beneficiary in grants in both fiscal 1949 and 1948—$363,000,000 in 1949 and $327,000,000 in 1948. The former enemy country has received $2,041,000,000 in grants since the war.

Britain and France were second and third in rank in fiscal 1949 with $399,000,000 and $750,000,000, respectively. Their total in postwar grants is more than $1,000,000,000 each. Britain got $1,022,000,000, France $363,000,000 in 1948 grants.

Italy has drawn $1,336,000,000 in four years, $394,000,000 of it in 1949 and $288,000,000 in 1948.

China, listed as second largest beneficiary of grants since the war, received a total of $1,533,000,000—$292,000,000 in fiscal 1949.

Japan and the Ryukyus have received $1,265,000,000 in civilian supplies since the end of the war—$410,000,000 of this in 1949 and $442,000,000 in 1948.

Injured in Accident

Donald Dolan, 17, of R.F.D. 2, Kingston, received a fractured left arm and lacerations to his head when the automobile he was driving struck two concrete guide posts along Route 32 near East Kingston at 10 a. m. Sunday, the sheriff's department reported.

Dolan was treated at Kingston Hospital following the accident. According to deputy sheriffs who investigated, Dolan was rounding the sharp S-curve on Route 32 between the intersection of the East Chester street by-pass and East Kingston when he lost control of the vehicle. The radiator and left front fender of the car were crushed, the sheriff's office said.

Reynolds Moves Downtown

Forced by the Broadway railroad crossing removal project to shift his business location, Edward F. Reynolds now conducts his plumbing, heating and metal shop at 39 East Strand in the former Fadoul dry goods store. Reynolds, who started in business in 1920, purchased the downtown property. He was formerly located in one of the buildings on Railroad avenue taken by the crossing job.

Six Blocks Repaved

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Manhattan's entire asphalt crowd turned out yesterday to give Sunday strollers a treat—and set some kind of a record by repaving six Fifth avenue blocks in 12 hours. The heavy work, done by 150 men, six big steam rollers and nine asphalt trucks, started at 7 a. m. By 7 p. m. the evening traffic was rolling. The work was thorough again. The work was of generally lighter traffic then.

Ellenville Street Superintendent Suspended, Bennett Reinstated; Will Consider Action

Following the reinstatement of Charles Bennett to his position of motor equipment operator in the street department of the village of Ellenville last week, the board of trustees of the village suspended James H. Van Wagner as superintendent of streets and the board of trustees will meet to consider action on that suspension.

Suspension of Bennett, who for 2½ years had been employed in the village street department in various capacities, came when charges of misconduct in his position as well as incompetency were filed with the village board.

Superintendent Van Wagner made an affidavit to the effect that Bennett had "committed acts of misconduct" in his position and "generally been incompetent" and had also been "argumentative" and had taken a "non-cooperative attitude." For those reasons the street superintendent recommended to the village board the dismissal of Bennett.

In the affidavit the facts were set forth that during the week of June 20, Bennett had been instructed to patch holes in Maple avenue and that in addition to doing this work he had caused repairs to be made to the private walk on the property of Walter Kuhlman. It was also alleged that on June 15 instructions had been given to patch Church street "between Center and Warren streets" but that Bennett had continued on past Warren street and patched holes in front of the building rented by the New York water supply offices. The affidavit further stated that Bennett had failed to report for work and had stated he had a "bad morning." It was also said that "he has made overt attempts to sow seeds of

Attitude of Tolerance Blamed for Russian Progress on Bomb

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—The question of Russian espionage and American security won more emphasis from U. S. lawmakers today than a renewal of Soviet suggestions for world controls over the A-bomb.

Two week-end statements by a pair of strategically placed members of Congress especially argued for tighter curbs on spies—now that Russia has had an atomic blast of her own.

The arguments were advanced by Rep. Velde (R-Ill.), a former G-man who worked on Soviet espionage cases, and Senator O'Connor (D-Md.), acting chairman of a Senate immigration subcommittee.

Now a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, Velde talked of introducing a resolution demanding that Congress investigate "our entire security setup."

Velde said there should be an inquiry, that the security record is "disgraceful" and a "threat to our national existence."

For 15 years, he said, the American government "from the White House down" has had an official attitude of tolerance and even sympathy for the views of Communists and fellow travelers.

As a result, he continued, espionage flourished and the Russians undoubtedly gained three to five years in manufacturing the atomic bomb.

Saying that there has been infiltration in the government by a spy network over the years Velde added: "Soviet espionage agents are still highly active."

In a broadcast, O'Connor said that under present laws the door is open for Communist infiltration under the guise of diplomatic and semi-diplomatic status. "Not only rank and file subversives are coming in, he said, but also hundreds of ring leaders."

"As the agents of Moscow," he said, "they are the brains and the guiding force of subversive activity in this country."

As to what can be done about them, O'Connor said the main need is for a law to bar them from the country or toss them out if they get in, regardless of their diplomatic status.

Secretary of State Acheson has protested that such a law would drastically interfere with the handling of foreign policy and might result in a rupture of relations with all Communist-dominated countries.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Committee, meanwhile labeled as "a phony" the Russian call for international control of atomic weapons.

The Russian offer is for control to be exercised by a committee under the United Nations Security Council, in which Russia has often exercised a veto.

McMahon also said that he did not believe the Russians achieved a "working bomb" until a few weeks ago, yet "they would like the world to believe that they have a stockpile now."

Senator Dulles (R-N. Y.) said in New York: "The Russians may now feel that they can blackmail us with threats of using atomic weapons. We must not give in. I never pay to pay blackmail, least of all to Communists."

As for more U. S. spending on military matters, the light of the new Russian atomic development, Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) and Gurney (R-S. D.) said they expected no change at this time—barring a presidential request.

Bridge Section Falls

Chillicothe, O., Sept. 26 (AP)—A 30-foot section of a steel bridge over Kinnikinnick creek collapsed yesterday, dropping a car and its driver 35 feet into the knee-deep water. The driver, William A. Jacobs, 21, of Chillicothe, escaped with only bruises on his forehead and leg and a few scratches.

Tension Increases As Miners Begin New Strike Week

No Signs of Break Occur; Lewis Awaits Action on Steel Before Settlement

Pittsburgh, Sept. 26 (AP)—Tension mounted in western Pennsylvania coal fields today as 480,000 United Mine workers began the second week of their nationwide strike.

"There are no signs of a break in the strike," John L. Lewis, head of the U. M. W., says none can be expected "while steel contracts are under way."

Pennsylvania State Police are patrolling several areas in western Pennsylvania. They arrested three men on riot charges during the week-end and said they're fearful violence may break out today if pickets try to interrupt operations at some non-union mines.

Lewis is set to resume contract talks with northern and western operators Thursday at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. His problem is trying to get the miners' pension plan back into operation and to stabilize it.

The operators finance the pension plan and other welfare benefits by paying 20-cent-a-ton royalty payments. Some southern operators quit paying—contending they didn't have to do so because the contract has expired.

Shortly afterwards, trustees of the fund cut off payments. It wasn't long before Lewis passed on word to the miners. They promptly quit work.

Hearing on Trains Will Open at 10

The hearing before Associate Grade Separation Engineer A. H. Williamson on the proposal of the New York Central Railroad to cut train service on the West Shore will be held at the court house on Thursday, September 29, at 10 a. m. Most of the hearing has been received by interested parties.

Curtailed of train service on the West Shore by the elimination of two daily trains north of Kingston and one on Sunday and the elimination completely of an Albany-Corpus Christi train on Sunday is proposed. The trains affected are Nos. 13, 25, 16 and 26.

The proposal is to terminate the run of a train operating daily from Weehawken to Albany at Kingston and to run the train only eliminating the service north of Kingston. The company

British Party Plans To Ask Parliament Devaluation Vote

Laborites Fear Leftists' Defection; Lack of Confidence would Bring Ballot

London, Sept. 26 (AP)—Britain's Labor Government decided today to stake its life on a motion asking Parliament to approve devaluation of the pound.

Parliament reconvenes tomorrow in an emergency three-day debate on the crisis raised by the cheapening of the pound from $4.03 to $2.80 eight days ago.

The Labor Party's motion should fall in the House of Commons, Prime Minister Attlee would be forced to disband Parliament and call an immediate general election. The government has a 60 per cent majority in the House, and if unruly Laborites can be whipped into line, the government will win out. Some Labor leaders worried that some of the leftist in their ranks might abstain from voting and cut down the Labor margin.

The Labor leaders prepared a motion today asking the House to call on the British people for "their full cooperation with the government" in digging out a desperate trade deficit. It promised the government would continue "maintaining full employment and safeguarding the social services." These services include school children, old age pensions, medical treatment and other welfare measures which are popular with a large section of the voters.

The motion gave no indication that the government plans any economies other than a five per cent cut in administration costs asked by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps. Britain's austerity czar.

A copy of the motion was sent to Winston Churchill, conservative leader, who planned to discuss it in private tonight with his Tory chiefs. Attlee, meanwhile, called a labor caucus for tomorrow morning, in advance of Parliament's opening, to explain the government's proposal to Laborite members of the House.

It was the beginning of a crisis week for the Labor government.

Top developments will be: A three-day Parliament debate on the devaluation of the pound. Delicate negotiations with the trade union leaders fearful that cheaper money will lead to higher prices and strikes for higher wages.

In the week since Britain cut the value of her money, rumors have mushroomed that growing labor unrest may force Britain's Socialist rulers into an election they fear and don't want.

Attlee's five-year term has 10 more months to run. But under the British Parliamentary system an earlier election can be forced by one of two methods—a vote of no confidence by Parliament or a decision by the prime minister himself to "go to the country."

The cabinet met this morning to prepare for a three-day emergency session of Parliament opening tomorrow to debate the devaluation decision.

Labor leaders were worried, however, that some leftwing Laborites—disillusioned because devaluation will raise the cost of living—may abstain from voting. If many Laborites failed to vote, it was possible—but not probable—Winston Churchill's Conservatives could unseat the government.

Taft Desires Spain As Defense Partner

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) wants Spain as a partner in North Atlantic defenses against a possible attack from Soviet Russia.

The Senate Republican Policy Committee chief has urged a speedy return to friendly relations with that uranium producing country. He said he thought Spain ought to be invited into the community of nations prepared to fight any advances of Communism.

"She is in a key military position so far as Europe is concerned," Taft said before leaving for Ohio to resume political campaigning. "There is no reason why we shouldn't recognize her fully in a diplomatic way and send an ambassador to Madrid."

Sources Declare Russians Construct Bases for Rockets

Missiles Are More Deadly Than Hitler Used, Is Report; Locations Not Known

Berlin, Sept. 26 (AP)—Russia has dotted eastern Europe with launching bases for deadlier rockets than Hitler ever used in World War 2, German and American sources said today.

Reliable German sources said at least the Nazi-built munitions plant in Soviet-occupied Germany is producing rockets for Russia.

The exact location of the Soviet launching bases is not known. But allied military intelligence officers said they believed Russia had constructed a chain of them—aimed at western Europe—stretching from the Baltic to the Black Sea in Soviet satellite territory.

A U. S. intelligence officer said "it is a matter of speculation" whether the rockets launched in Czechoslovakia, Poland or the Balkans could reach the farthest points of western Europe.

Military informants said there was no evidence the Soviet zone of Germany was being prepared as a rocket launching base.

"The Soviet zone, however, includes Peenemuende, one of the biggest of Hitler's rocket plants on the Baltic coast. Peenemuende was once smashed by British bombers but reports circulated recently Russia has rebuilt it with German war prisoners as laborers."

Another pro-allied German informant said a huge underground munitions factory built by the Nazis at Rechlin, in northeast Germany, also is turning out new deadlier rockets than those Hitler used to shoot at England.

He said the Rechlin plant has been cordoned off with a heavy guard, and that thick minefields have been laid.

A U. S. army source said: "It is perfectly logical that Russia should have a network of launching bases for rockets. We know (Continued on Page 15, Col. 3)

Soviets Say Secret Held For 2 Years

Czechoslovakia, Spain Claim Stores of Ore Found; May Be Used by Franco

Germans Credited Red Knowledge Laid to Work of Scientists From East Zone

London, Sept. 26 (AP)—Reports of new uranium discoveries on both sides of the Iron Curtain—in Czechoslovakia and Spain—spurred talk of an atomic energy race now that Russia has atomic weapons.

These were the week-end developments in Europe following President Truman's announcement that the Russians had touched off an atomic explosion recently.

J. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, asserted Russia has had atomic weapons since 1947. It again said the Soviet Union was ready for international control of atomic energy but didn't say what kind of control—a point that has balked American-Soviet agreement because previously Russia has insisted on a veto power over international inspectors.

2. Franco Spain, already possessing known uranium deposits, was reported to have found new veins of the ore from which atom bombs are made. This prompted speculation as to whether Generalissimo Franco would use his uranium store in bargaining for improved relations with the western powers.

3. A new uranium mine was reported opened in Czechoslovakia under the direction of Russian engineers. At least two Czech mines are known to be sending uranium already to Soviet Russia.

4. German scientists and uranium ore from East Germany helped the Russians develop their bomb, informed American and German sources reported.

Although the Tass announcement did not confirm or deny President Truman's disclosure of a recent atomic explosion in Russia, it matter-of-factly declared that Russia now had atomic weapons since 1947.

Many western European statesmen and diplomats privately took the two-year bomb claim with a grain of salt. But chief interest centered on the new agency's statement that Russia still wants international control of atomic energy. The more question was: Is Stalin getting ready to make any concessions to the west in favor of honest-to-goodness international supervision?

Stands on Position

Tass declared the Soviet Union stands on its former position of favoring absolute prohibition of the use of atomic weapons. But a provision to "check up" has been the stumbling block to agreement for three years.

The U. S. and the overwhelming majority of the United Nations—voted in favor of an international commission to control the atomic energy process from mine to finished product. They want no veto on punishment of any nation violating the atomic code, and full powers of inspection to search out any violations.

The Russians have urged immediate ban on atomic weapons and establishment of an inspection commission responsible to the U. N. Security Council, where Russia could veto any action she didn't like. The Russians also proposed inspections but didn't give satisfactory answers to the west as to how far they would go in permitting inspectors to roam Soviet territory.

Czechoslovakia's new uranium mine was reported to be 25 miles south of Prague.

The new Spanish deposits were reported to be in the Pyrenees. Spain already is reputed to be the holder of the world's fourth largest uranium deposits although little of the material has been mined.

Diplomatic sources in Madrid said uranium, more than anything else, might persuade the Atlantic Pact powers to lift their diplomatic boycott of the Franco regime. Rep. James J. Murphy (D-N.Y.) arrived in Madrid yesterday to discuss the possibility of an American loan to Spain.

Will See Franco

Senator Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) also due to see the Generalissimo about a loan and position.

Police Seek Man In Apparent Sex Slaying of Girl

Hemlock, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The pistol slaying of Joanne Lynn, 11, was "apparently a sex murder," state police said today. They hunted "an unknown man." Investigation indicated the killer lured or dragged Joanne into an automobile and shortly afterward shot her twice as she cringed in a grove of locust trees.

The girl's body was found Saturday about four miles north of this western New York community.

Joanne vanished last Monday morning while walking to school. The grove where her body was found is 200 yards off the road she travelled.

No description of suspect or vehicle used, said Lt. William M. Stevenson of the state police in a teletype alarm issued last night.

The Livingston county sheriff's office, however, said it had put out a 14-state alarm for a 1938 to 1940 model gray sedan with Pennsylvania license plates. The sheriff did not disclose any evidence linking such a car with the killing.

Dr. Herbert R. Brown, county pathologist, said preliminary investigation indicated Joanne had not been raped.

However, state police said they believed it was a "sex murder" because her underclothing was missing and because of the lone spot where she was killed. Her sweater and a dollar she had for her school lunch also were missing.

Bus Stop Eliminated
Broadway line buses on the up, or northbound, trip will not stop at the intersection of Broadway and Stuyvesant street on and after October 3, it was announced today by the Kingston City Transportation corporation.

The stop, located midway up the hill and curve on Broadway between McEntee and East Chestnut streets, was eliminated because of the unsafe traffic conditions there.

Evening Verse
(For Your Songbooks)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

DOUBTFUL DELIGHTS
I like the harvest well enough
But Autumn means that winter's near
And when the winds are howling high
My Summer pleasures disappear.

I like the orchards, rich with fruit
And all the colors that they show
But when we've stored the last of it
It's time to sound the Autumn knell.

The burst of color pleases me
And yet I'm just a bit depressed
Revering June's exciting spree
When every field was green and dressed.

I winter haven't so close at hand
Like the Autumn very much
But when the frost betrays the land
My wishes have an April touch.

In other words, if I could spend
The zero months at Tampa Bay
I'd gladly greet the season's trend
When Autumn has the right-of-way.

Local Death Record

Oscar Conorman, Sr., died Sunday at his home in Walden. Funeral services will be held at the Millspaugh Funeral Home, 22 Bank street, Walden, Wednesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Walkill Valley Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Caroline J. Card was held at her late home in Port Ewen Friday afternoon with the Rev. Harry E. Christians of the Port Ewen Reformed Church conducting the service. Many friends called at the home to pay their respects. There also was a profusion of flowers bunched about the casket. A large number of friends and relatives attended the service. Burial took place in the Riverside cemetery in Port Ewen.

Lewis Lounsbury of 407 Washington avenue died Sunday. He had been a resident of this city for many years. Two sisters, Mrs. Irma Van De Mark of this city and Mrs. Annie Wager of Lyonsville and a brother, George Lounsbury of Kripplush, and several nieces and nephews survive. The funeral will be held from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, Wednesday at 11 a. m. Burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery, Stone Ridge.

Florence Decker, 83, widow of Lorenzo Decker, of Kerhonkson, R.F.D., died in Kingston Saturday. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Vernon Keator and Mrs. Homer Wynkoop of Kerhonkson; two sons, Basil and Jerry Decker of Kerhonkson; and a sister, Mrs. John Gray, also of Kerhonkson. Besides six grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home Kerhonkson, Tuesday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. John Hart, pastor of the Accord Reformed Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Pine Bush Cemetery near Kerhonkson.

William J. Duffney, who made his home with his sister, Mrs. John Keizer at 25 Madison street, died Sunday following an illness of one and a half months at the Marine Hospital, Staten Island. He was born in Keyesville the son of the late John and Julia Rock Duffney. Mr. Duffney was a boat captain for Dwyer Brothers practically his entire life. He also was a member of St. Mary's Church and the Holy Name Society of that parish. He is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. Austin Duffney; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Sinsabaugh and Mrs. John Keizer, Kingston; two nieces and two nephews. His wife, Margaret Ostrander Duffney, died some time ago. The funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith avenue, Thursday at 9 a. m. and thence to St. Mary's Church where a high Mass of requiem will be offered at 9:30 a. m. for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home anytime from Tuesday afternoon on.

The funeral of Christopher A. Mooney, who died at Newburgh, N. Y., on Saturday at 9:30 a. m., was held Sunday at 9:30 a. m. from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home, and at St. Mary's Church 10 a. m. where a solemn Mass of requiem was offered by the Right Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, P.R.V.F., the Rev. John A. Flaherty acting as deacon and the Rev. Edward J. Farrelly, sub-deacon. The responses to the choir under the direction of Theodore Riccobono, organist. The church was filled with relatives and friends who came to pay their last tribute to the deceased. During the day the body reposed in the funeral home, hundreds came to offer their sympathies and condolences to the bereaved family. Monsignor Drury called and offered the prayers for the dead. Delegations from the New York Central Railroad, the West Shore and Catskill Mountain divisions, called and paid their respects. Friday evening Father Farrelly visited the family assisted by those present, recited the Rosary. There was a profusion of flowers and many spiritual bouquets, silent tokens of the high esteem in which Mr. Mooney was held. Bearers were James Prendergast, Edwin Neiter, James Howard, Benjamin Bleitshofer, Dominick Rabbottini and William Prendergast. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where the final absolution and blessing were given by Father Farrelly.

Boy Dies in Fire
Needham, Colo., Sept. 26 (AP)—Rescued once from his burning home, Ronald Copple, 11, sloppily wandered back into his bedroom and died of suffocation. Fire Chief Harry E. Hedges said the boy's mother, Mrs. Virginia Copple, led the boy to safety shortly after midnight Saturday night. She also rescued her three-year-old son, Michael. While Mrs. Copple was busy taking care of the youngest child, Ronald apparently stumbled sleepily back into the house and went to bed again, Hedges said.

Van Gogh Art Shipped
Rotterdam, Sept. 26 (AP)—Seventy-two paintings and 70 drawings of Dutch Painter Vincent Van Gogh were shipped to New York Saturday aboard the Holland-America liner Westerdam. They will be exhibited in the New York Metropolitan Museum from Oct. 15 to January 15 next year and in the Chicago Art Institute from Feb. 1 to April 15. It is the greatest Van Gogh collection ever shipped to the U. S. since the Van Gogh exhibition of 1935.

Women-Free Mountains
Tokyo (AP)—There are no more mountains in Japan for men only. Five Japanese women have climbed mile-high Mount Omine in Nara, prefecture southwest of Tokyo. Before the war, there were a lot of peaks where women mountain climbers were not allowed. Buddhist sects had built temples there and wouldn't allow women around. Came Japan's new constitution after the war and a new day for Japanese women. They became as free as the men. And all the female mountain climbers look advantage of the new day. They began scaling every mountain peak that had been out-of-bounds for them before. Omine was the last to be conquered.

Broadhead Is Held For Grand Jury; Arrested Sunday

Percy Broadhead, 26, of 146 West Pierpoint street, who was arrested by Officers Louis Sapp, Jr., and Henry Ronnenberg Sunday on a charge of grand larceny, first degree, was held for the grand jury when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Minn. The police report at 1:18 p. m. Sunday said Stanley Kaplan, 102 Hone street, was notified by his brother Rodney that Broadhead had wrecked Stanley's truck near East Kingston. Stanley said he had not given Broadhead permission to take the truck and requested the police department to apprehend Broadhead.

Joseph Wells, 68, of 44 East Strand, who was arrested on a third degree assault charge Sunday was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail and directed to pay a fine of $10 or spend 10 days in jail. Authorities said the arrest was on complaint of a 10-year-old girl. Officer Francis Fagan called for the police car at 11:50 a. m. and officers James Burns and William Hanley were dispatched when the arrest was made.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Trading continued on an even keel today in the stock market with gains and losses at a virtual stand-off.

The pace was moderately active throughout, and the volume was boosted somewhat by the trading of numerous large blocks of stock at the opening. Commonwealth & Southern topped the list but remained unchanged at 5%.

Ancrafts were active and fractions to around 2 points higher, the best advance of any of the major groups.

Gold shares held to small gains as a continued reflection of the inflationary effects of the cut in foreign currencies resulting in higher prices in the devaluation area.

Higher were Santa Fe, Consolidated Natural Gas, Phelps Dodge, McIntyre-Porcupine, International Nickel, duPont, Union Carbide, American Can, Admiral Corp., Boeing, Douglas, United Aircraft, Lockheed, and Texas Co.

Fending lower were New York Central, Barnwell Oil, U. S. Gypsum, Consolidated Edison, American Cyanamid, Eastman Kodak, Philip Morris, International Paper, American Tobacco, J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Goodyear, Goodrich and Chrysler.

Trading in the curb market was active, but price changes were in narrow range. A number of active leaders remained unchanged for long periods. Higher were Louisiana Land, Northrop Aircraft, Aluminum Goods, Ashland Oil, and Ford Motor of France.

Lower were Cities Service and Electric Bond and Share. Unchanged for the most part were Imperial Oil, National Union Radio, Niagara Hudson Power, Pancontinental Oil, Pantepec Oil and Claude Neon.

Three Are Rescued

Freeport, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—A six-year-old boy and his parents were rescued yesterday from Great South Bay by a New York city detective and his wife who were cruising in the area. The rescued were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Regis Poliquin and their son, Michael, of (3516 85th street) Jackson Heights, Queens. The Poliquins were anchored in Jones Inlet, fishing from an outboard motorboat. The engine failed, Poliquin said when he pulled up at anchor. The strong current swung the craft broadside into a buoy, upsetting the boat. John C. Leffer, 52, and his wife, Helen, landed the family aboard their cabin cruiser and took them to the Short Beach coast guard station.

2,000 Go on Strike

Palmerton, Pa., Sept. 26 (AP)—More than 2,000 workers of the New Jersey Zinc Company, one of the largest zinc producers in the nation, struck today. The workers, members of the United Steelworkers of America, quit their jobs in support of demands for wage increases and insurance and pension benefits. The union had rejected a company offer to continue the present wage scale to February 28, 1950. The current contract expired at midnight. The strike became effective one minute later.

In the United States alone, more than 165,000 telephone calls are made daily.

St. Mary's Has Special Service For Anniversaries

With the beautiful liturgy of the church as a setting, St. Mary's Church in Kingston celebrated its triple anniversaries yesterday.

The service began with a solemn high Mass at 11 a. m. The Right Rev. Martin J. Drury, V.F., who was commemorating the 35th anniversary of his own ordination to the priesthood, was the celebrant of the Mass, assisted by the Rev. Edward C. Nihan of City Island, a classmate, as deacon, and the Rev. Albert McGovern from St. Patrick's Church, New York, a boyhood friend of Monsignor Drury, as sub-deacon. Father McGovern was the sub-deacon at Monsignor Drury's first Mass 35 years ago.

The church was crowded with a number of representatives of the different religious orders, the parishioners and former parishioners, and Monsignor Drury's family who came to be present with him on his anniversary.

The principal celebration centered around the 100th anniversary of the building and dedication of the church proper, and the 100th anniversary of its consecration. Twelve candles were burning on the walls of the church, commemorating the 12 apostles, upon whom Christ founded His church. The altar was beautifully decorated with American Beauty roses, a gift

Laborers Arrested Following Fight; One Man Jailed

Three farm laborers, one of them a woman, were arrested at Marlborough early Sunday morning on disorderly conduct charges. State police at the Highland barracks said the arrests followed a fracas during which one of the men received a slash on his neck and the interior of his cabin was wrecked.

Edward Speath, 44, of Marlborough was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Foughkeepsie for treatment of a cut neck, troopers said, after which he was placed under arrest. Also arrested were Mrs. Louise Speath, 31, and John Marshall, 37, troopers said.

The three were apple pickers and early Sunday morning became involved in a "wrangle" in their cabin on the Frank Conn farm at Marlborough, state police charged. The interior of the cabin was wrecked, the stove overturned and furniture broken, troopers said.

The three persons were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Philip Lyons of Milton. Marshall and Mrs. Speath paid fines of $7 each, which Edward Speath was committed to jail for seven days in lieu of a similar fine, troopers said.

C.C.N.Y. Football Player Is Dead

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—John Lasak, 21, varsity right halfback on the City College football team, was found dead today in his dormitory room. A doctor said he apparently suffered a heart attack.

In last Saturday's opening game, the 185-pound Lasak scored three touchdowns and led the Beavers to a 59-0 victory over Susquehanna. On one scoring play he intercepted a forward pass in the end zone and ran 102 yards for a touchdown.

Lasak's home was at 25-62 46th street, Long Island City, Queens. He was found this morning by a fellow-player, Bernard Lipsky, of 1086 Home street, the Bronx. Dr. Abner Stein, of 262 Central Park West, a member of the college staff, pronounced Lasak dead. Last year Lasak was the leading ground gainer and scorer for the Beavers.

Childhood Education Meeting Here Tuesday

The first meeting of The Kingston Association for Childhood Education will be held Tuesday, September 27 beginning at 3:15 in the Kingston High School auditorium. It will be an open meeting.

Dr. C. W. Hunnicutt will be the speaker, having as his topic "A Developmental Reading Program through the Grades". Dr. Hunnicutt is head of the department of education at Syracuse University.

He formerly was head of the reading clinic at Syracuse. All educators, including administrators, supervisors, special teachers, school nurses and elementary teachers as well as anyone interested in the education of children are invited to attend this meeting.

Recreation Supervisor Needed at Day Nursery

Another recreation supervisor for the morning hours is needed at the Day Nursery, 24 Barnman avenue, according to Mrs. Charles W. Brant of the Volunteers of America who conduct the nursery.

"We need someone who can volunteer their services from about 9 o'clock to noon," Mrs. Brant said and she suggested that someone trained to work with children and who understands children would be ideal.

Perhaps some retired school teacher or other person trained to supervise young people, would be willing to help. Mrs. Brant said as she asked anyone interested to call her at 1583.

Barkley Visits Friend

St. Louis, Sept. 26 (AP)—Vice President Barkley spent the weekend in St. Louis, helping an attractive friend celebrate her 38th birthday anniversary. The vice president attended a birthday party for Mrs. Carlton S. Hadley Saturday night. Yesterday they went to church together. Mrs. Hadley's friends had speculated that the birthday party might be the occasion for announcement of the couple's engagement. But it was not even known today whether Barkley had given Mrs. Hadley a present. He has made several trips to St. Louis recently to see her. Mrs. Hadley, a widow, was at the airport when the 71-year-old vice president took off for Washington late yesterday. She also met him on his arrival Friday night.

Agriculture Is

year fell just short of the billion-dollar mark—$946,521,000.

Nearly half of this farm income came from dairying.

The value of farm land and buildings in the state was estimated at $1,087,522,000 in 1945.

The Agriculture Department said that last year New York led every state in the union in production of market sweet corn, lima beans for fresh market, onions, hay and cabbage for fresh use and for sauerkraut.

New York also led the nation in raising ducks.

It stood second in production of milk, apples, grapes, cauliflower, maple products, cucumbers for market, buckwheat, snap beans and hets for processing.

Only Wisconsin and Minnesota boasted more milk cows than New York's total of 1,543,000 and the state stood third in milk production with 8,052,000,000 pounds.

New York also stood third in potatoes, lettuce, sour cherries and silage corn.

Meanwhile, the department reported yesterday estimated the apple crop at 18,620,000 bushels compared with last year's crop of 11,750,000.

This year's pear crop was estimated at 1,162,000 bushels. The peach crop, now almost completely marketed, was described by the department as about average. The 1,364,000 bushels compares with 1,114,000 in 1948.

Caesar Finn Dies

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Caesar Finn, 47, composer-pianist, plunged eight floors to his death yesterday in the Central Park West apartment building where he lived. Police said Miss Hope Springarn, who described herself as Finn's fiancée, reported they were on the way to his penthouse apartment when he fell. Miss Springarn told police they had taken an elevator to the 12th floor and were walking up a narrow winding stairway to his apartment when Finn lost his balance. He plunged over a railing to the fourth floor.

Not So Bad at All

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—It looked like a bloody brawl. Twenty men and youths were arrested with crimson when police arrived to break up a free-for-all at a Manhattan restaurant last night. But it was only ketchup—the restaurant's total supply. Tossing the ketchup bottles led to disorderly conduct charges against all 20 participants. There were only a few drops of blood—from the head of one youth hit by a flying bottle. The restaurant's plate glass window was the worst casualty.

Noted Throat Specialists report on 30-Day Test of Camel Smokers...

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

Yes, these were the findings of noted throat specialists after a total of 2,470 weekly examinations of the throats of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days.

THOUSANDS MORE AGREE!

"The 30-Day Test opened my eyes! Smoking is really fun when I smoke Camels!" Skater Jinx Clark.

"How long have I smoked Camels? Years! Camels suit me to a 'T'! Adam 'Tommy' Bridge maintenance.

"Camels passed my smoking test 100%! They agree with my throat and taste so good!" Pilot Mary Morrison.

"My test of Camels has been going on for years! And Camels cheers my test!" Golfer Gene Sarazen.

"Camels gave me a lesson in smoking pleasure. They taste good and mild!" Telephone operator Rita Edwards.

"Mildest cigarette I ever smoked! A change to Camels was for the better!" Billiard star Willie Mosconi.

"I made my own test I found Camels the mildest, best-tasting cigarette I changed to Camels!" Mary Goodfellow, hat designer.

"I never knew how enjoyable smoking could be until I changed to Camels!" Gladys Swarthout, opera star.

"I changed my ideas about smoking enjoyment when I changed to Camels. They taste good!" Mrs. Orson Munro, Jr., socialite.

"Personally, I've found the answer is a milder, better-tasting smoke I'd walk a mile for a Camel!" Aquatic star Bill Hildner.

"I changed my ideas about smoking enjoyment when I changed to Camels. They taste good!" Mrs. Orson Munro, Jr., socialite.

"I changed my ideas about smoking enjoyment when I changed to Camels. They taste good!" Mrs. Orson Munro, Jr., socialite.

Long Island housewife EDNA WRIGHT made the 30-Day Test. Her throat specialist reported no sign of throat irritation due to smoking Camels.

MY DOCTOR'S REPORT WAS NO SURPRISE TO ME...CAMELS AGREED WITH MY THROAT RIGHT FROM THE START! AND CAMELS MAKE SMOKING SUCH WONDERFUL FUN!

Start your own 30-Day Camel Mildness Test Today!

You have the word of Camel smokers... of noted throat specialists, too... but prove it for yourself. Smoke Camels for 30 days. Compare them in your "T-Zone" (T for taste, T for throat). See if you don't agree that Camels are the mildest, best-tasting cigarette you ever smoked!

SEARCH FOR LOST CITIES

An unknown city of a hundred square miles, with battlements, towers, walls and streets, completely deserted, and glowing at night with a phosphorescent light, has been found, of all places, in the dry sandy waste of inner Australia. Historians might be agog at this discovery by a group of Australian scientists, headed by Keith Douglas Young. But on close examination this "city" was found to be not man-made but the work of wind and storm on limestone. Thus vanishes what was first thought to be a chance to find an early historical background for Australia, the continent which has the least known history.

The same disappointment meets explorers sometimes in other parts of the world. Henry St. John Philby, an Englishman who embraced Mohammedanism and was for a time the confidential adviser of the Arab ruler Ibn Saud, explored Arabia's famous Empty Quarter, a super-desert which even the Arabs shunned. Somewhere in it were supposed to be the ruins of Wabar, capital of Arabia's legendary dynasty, the Adites, who for their wickedness were destroyed by fire. By luck Philby found that he was passing near the supposed ruins, and turned aside to examine them. They proved to be purely volcanic, and not the product of human hands.

Americans who have visited the towers and battlements of Utah's Bryce Canyon, and similar rock formations elsewhere in the Southwest, will understand how such formations can be mistaken for uninhabited cities.

CONSERVATIVES

"The Pennsylvania election looks good to conservatives," said Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, referring to the Republican victory in a special congressional election regarded as a sign-post. His expression may be thought remarkable in that he described himself as a conservative. While he is generally so labeled, his speeches have often emphasized his votes on the liberal side of public questions.

Most American politicians like to be thought liberals. They used to call themselves progressives, until the use of that name by third parties gave a partisan meaning to the term. The first Progressive Party was led by Theodore Roosevelt and the elder Robert La Follette, remembered now as liberals. Henry Wallace gave a new meaning to the name with the current party bearing it. President William H. Taft, the senator's father, was as conservative a man as any in the public life of his day, but always maintained that he was a liberal.

The name "conservative" to many Americans sounds old-foggyish. Yet it is said that many have become conservative early in life. The philosopher William James maintained that they did so at 25. But whatever their frame of mind, few like the label, particularly in political life.

LEARNING AND MATURITY

"Adult education in these days should rank in importance with elementary, secondary and college education," said Eugene Staley in an article in a California educational publication. The statement is quoted by H. A. Overstreet, in his recent book "The Mature Mind," to support the theory that one aspect of maturity is willingness and ability to learn. In this constantly changing world, the individual's adaptation to conditions depends on a knowledge of the reasons for the conditions and their probable results.

The closed mind never really matures. Physical growth reaches a limit at a certain age, but no age boundary can be set for mental growth. Man's ability as an individual to survive the conditions he has collectively brought about is contingent on his individual growth in knowledge and insight.

One Russian activity which draws no criticism is the gathering of the folk-songs and legends of the many nationalities of the Soviet Union. Many must be collected by

NATION OF GROUPS

The majority campaign in New York is an index to a distressing trend current in this country for 20 years to split up the American people into groups, classes, nationalities, religions. Our nation was conceived in the magnificent ideal of the unalienable rights of the individual, in respect for the dignity of the individual human being.

The politicians are degrading that ideal by their manipulations among ancestral nationalities and in their stimulation of religious bigotry and hatred. They have made considerable capital out of this. The Republican party later, the Democrats disappeared in New York City, undoubtedly because of its lack of skill in such manipulations. Its place has been taken, perhaps temporarily, by the Liberal Party, an offshoot of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. The Liberal Party is controlled by Dave Dubinsky who also runs the union. His authority in the union rests upon competent management and personal decency beyond anything expected of men similarly occupied. His political power rests upon his ability to produce a block of about 400,000 votes and the treasury of his union when needed.

So he nominated the Republican-Liberal-Fusion candidate for mayor, Newbold Morris, a nice man who made speeches for LaGuardia when the Little Flower regarded the occasion of not sufficient importance for his personal attention. Morris is so unsure of himself that he dares not decide whether he is for John Foster Dulles, the Republican candidate for United States senator, or Herbert Lehman, the Democrat running for that office on the Liberal Party ticket. So Morris runs with Dulles and also with Lehman which would be ridiculous were it not also an index to a serious national disease, namely, that men run for office without principle but only because they want public office.

Into this campaign has crept the issue of the Barden Bill. The issue is raised because when Cardinal Spellman was fighting that bill, Herbert Lehman attacked the Cardinal. That was supposed to kill his political chances, until it was conceived that he could attack the Cardinal but be against the Barden Bill. By this means, he would get the Jewish vote and also the Irish Catholic vote which he needs, if he is to win. Of course, neither the Jews nor the Catholics nor the Protestants, nor Italians nor Puerto Ricans, should vote on any such group basis. But they do and it is very bad for the United States of America.

Newbold Morris would not support the opposition to the Barden Bill. So here is his position: Lehman, on the Liberal Party ticket, opposes the Barden Bill; Morris, on the same ticket, supports it; but Bill O'Dwyer is also a running mate of Lehman on the Democratic ticket and he opposes the Barden Bill. Did you ever see such a mix-up?

It is about the same on all issues. Morris runs as the heir to Fiorello LaGuardia, the famed Little Flower, who, after he ceased to be mayor of New York, ran UNRRA which became a great refuge for Communists and served Soviet Russia better than it did the United States. And as anybody who knows New York must know, LaGuardia's favorite was not Morris but Vito Marcantonio who is also running for mayor on the American Labor Party ticket, which is the political arm of the Communist party in New York. If anyone can claim to be the ideological as well as personal heir of the Little Flower, Vito Marcantonio can establish such a claim.

As a matter of fact, Vito's great political power was organized originally by LaGuardia to get himself elected to Congress. At that time, he was a Negro and Italian vote. To that Marcantonio added the Puerto Ricans whom he imported by airplane and put on the relief rolls with LaGuardia's connivance. These Puerto Ricans now number about 250,000 in New York.

Where is the United States in all this? It is easy to say, as some do, that this country starts west of the Hudson river, but that is a wisecrack and answers nothing. The same pattern appears in the office of those who make the wisecracks. The United States cannot survive as a congeries of so-called minorities, as a nation of groups.

That Body of Yours

BOTTLED UP ANGER

I recently wrote about migraine—one-sided headache—in which research workers found that some emotional problem was the match that started the fire in the type of personality of migraine patients—overambitious, overconscientious about their work, while ergotamine tartrate relieved practically all cases of migraine, finding and relieving the underlying emotional problem was the important part of the treatment.

That chronic headache is often caused by emotional disturbances is reported by Dr. E. Brenner, A. P. Friedman and A. W. Columbia University. They investigated several hundred patients with chronic headache over a period of five years. They state that a large percentage of such patients are suppressing or holding back, or are really unconscious of strong feelings of resentment and anger. Such patients can be helped greatly by an opportunity to express these feelings to a doctor or by rearranging their lives so as to avoid sources of anger. This was the treatment suggested for migraineurs by Dr. Marcusen and H. G. Wolf.

Other patients suffer with an unconscious need of illness which would help them to avoid contacts or problems. In these cases the family physician or psychiatrist must listen to the patient's account of personal history which is so helpful to the patients, having bottled up anger. In time the family physician, by showing the patient how these little things have helped him can persuade the patient to consult a psychiatrist who is especially equipped to treat such cases of chronic headache.

The importance of the physician-patient relationship is stressed as a method of treatment which operates unconsciously even though the patient is unable to recognize or admit that the doctor's personality has helped him.

The thought is that while most headaches are caused by disturbances of liver, ear, large intestine and female generative organs, a large number of chronic headaches are caused by emotional disturbances such as bottled-up anger. Once the patient realizes that this is the cause he may be able to help himself by bringing the problem out to the light. His pent-up anger causes his headaches.

word of mouth from illiterate and often suspicious people, who have heard them from their nurses or perhaps from the elders of the tribe. Often only one or two persons are left who remember the old-time songs. If these few are not found, all record of these valuable traditions is lost. One collector in a period of forty years has found over 700 songs, tales and epics which existed only by word of mouth.

How did the practical joker get his name? It certainly is far from practical to have one around.

Patient Little Animal, Isn't He?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Two men dominate the policies of the giant U. S. Steel Corporation, and will also largely decide whether or not the nation is stymied by a steel strike. They are:

Ben Fairless—President of U. S. Steel, son of a Welsh coal miner, who taught school, came up the hard way and is generally sympathetic to labor.

Enders Voorhees—Chairman of the Finance Committee of U. S. Steel, son of a bank president, a tightfisted New York Dutchman, and an accountant whose job is to pinch pennies for J. P. Morgan and Co., which largely owns and controls U. S. Steel.

These two men sometimes disagree. And their disagreement represents a seesaw between liberal and conservative policies which have alternated in the management of U. S. Steel and J. P. Morgan.

Originally U. S. Steel was one of the most reactionary firms in America. For years the famed Judge Elbert Gary ruled it with an iron hand. Labor was treated like so many ingots or blast furnaces—except that labor was a lot cheaper.

Then a new day dawned in the oak-paneled offices of J. P. Morgan, Myron Taylor, now ambassador to the Vatican, believed in giving labor a break. Dwight Morrow, also leaned toward labor. And Thomas W. Lamont, guiding genius of the Morgan firm, was far more liberal than the public realized.

So in 1937 the world was flabbergasted when Myron Taylor negotiated a union contract for U. S. Steel, for the first time in that firm's history.

J. P. Morgan Goes Conservative. Then Myron Taylor stepped out of U. S. Steel in favor of the Vatican; Tom Lamont died, and J. P. Morgan reverted to the conservatives. Thus began the trend toward conservatism again in the giant steel corporation and the elevations of Enders Voorhees, accountant son of a New York banker, to the position of real influence.

Finally it saw the wane of Ben Fairless, the traditional friend of labor.

It is significant that, during the lengthy sessions of the President's fact-finding board, the only head of a big steel corporation who made no appearance was Ben Fairless. The tightfisted Voorhees appeared for him.

Fairless first got in wrong with his J. P. Morgan masters when he told the White House, shortly after the war, that U. S. Steel would accept the 15½-cent-an-hour wage increase. This brought rising temperatures to some of the gentlemen in J. P. Morgan offices, and since then they have been more careful about letting Ben Fairless loose at a wage conference without a chaperone.

Fairless' Record. Ben Fairless was born 59 years ago into a coal miner's family at Pigeon Run, Ohio. His father, told to educate his first-born, farmed him out to an uncle who ran a store at nearby Jactus, Ohio. As a result, Ben took his uncle's name, and always remembered his mother's resolve that, come what may, he should never work in the mines.

Fairless taught a one-room country school in order to save up money for college, was graduated from Ohio Northern University, joined the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad as engineer, then the Central Steel Company, then Republic Steel, and finally U. S. Steel.

Just out of college, Fairless married Blanche Truby, also a schoolteacher and a subsequent enthusiast over religious cults. She died in 1942, and Fairless married Elizabeth Spauld, divorced wife of Jack Spauld, son of the late G. O. P. governor of Pennsylvania.

The new Mrs. Fairless is the daughter of G. O. P. Governor Hatfield of West Virginia, has made Ben cut down his drinking, and has pulled in his waistline, and has married her daughter to Ben's son.

When Ben retired, six years hence at the age of 65, he will receive a pension of $50,000 a year paid for by the company, but the same company now balks at paying steelworkers' pensions as recommended by the fact-finding board.

Steel's Real Boss. Enders McClumpha Voorhees, the accountant who really dominates U. S. Steel, is the son of an Amsterdam, N. Y., banker whose family settled in New York in 1660. As a boy, his father invested in a knitting business which went into bankruptcy, and young Voorhees, convinced that poor accounting methods were responsible, decided to take up accounting as his profession.

Since then he has led the colorless rather routine life of a financier, rose to be financial vice-president of Johns-Manville Company, came to U. S. Steel in 1937, is author of a new cost-accounting system of which he is proud.

Voorhees has the natural banker's approach to labor problems. Not being a talker, his views are not a matter of detailed record.

Judging from U. S. Steel's recent policies, however, plus reports from his colleagues in banking circles, Voorhees feels it would be better for labor to take a bloody nose before management yields further on either wages or pensions.

Furthermore, any settlement, in the opinion of the Voorhees school of management, must come under the Taft-Hartley Act. And so far, any invoking of Taft-Hartley has been deftly avoided both by the White House and by labor.

The Taft-Hartley Act, for instance, provides for a cooling-off period of only 80 days. Already the steelworkers union has voluntarily postponed a strike for 76 days as of today, and 80 days as of October 1. The Taft-Hartley Act could have done no better.

Furthermore, one of the amendments to Taft-Hartley accepted by the C. I. O. during Senate debates last year was a fact-finding board to recommend settlements. This was exactly what President Truman appointed in the steel dispute and the union is now willing to accept its recommendations in toto.

But the steel industry is not. For, among other things, to accept the fact-finding recommendations would show that labor's method of settling disputes was workable and that the Taft-Hartley Act was not so essential after all.

That are some of the views held by some of the men who will finally decide whether the nation's economy is tied up by a giant steel strike.

Russia May Have Done U. S. Big Favor by Exploding Atomic Bomb

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 25—Russia may have inadvertently performed a salutary service to the United States by exploding an A-bomb and telling the world she has manufactured what Americans so long thought was a secret weapon.

For Russia's action may also have exploded the one-weapon theory of defense which has recently dominated the military thinking of the top planners of the United States. Concentration on strategic bombing, thought popularly to be our greatest strength now, may prove our biggest weakness.

Certainly all plans will have to be revised radically both from the offensive and defensive standpoint since Russia has proved to us that it is an illusion to depend on mere technology or improved weapons to may out a winning strategy.

For while Congress has characterized this illusion for years, it has been a "long lead" in technology which can protect her safety—it now becomes evident that reliance on such alleged superiority can lead still further along the path of mistaken assumptions. Technology goes to a common source—and Russia has good scientists, too.

A future war will be won with Russia—now looks like this:

1. Theoretically Russia would start the war only when she is ready and in Pearl Harbor fashion—four or five years hence or even later meanwhile keeping the defending nations in a state of anxiety with their economic burdens increasing constantly to support armament expenditures.

2. Russia already possesses jet fighter planes equal to or superior to anything which the United States has today. This means her long range bombers of the B-29 type protected by jet fighters can overrun Europe and support her advancing armies of foot soldiers.

3. Strategic bombing from 40,000 feet by B-29's is not accurate bombing. It is "area bombing" and while it can destroy large numbers of persons it doesn't destroy underground factories and military installations. Terror bombing will not affect the Russians any more than it did the British.

4. The fixed bases in Europe or Alaska from which our B-36's or other planes would fly are open to attack without warning as happened in Pearl Harbor. This means a loss of initiative to us. Intercontinental bombing is of little avail if the Russian armies start the war suddenly and overrun continental Europe and thus make it unlikely that the A-bomb would be used for "area bombing" of the cities of the very people who are allied with us.

5. Against such a sudden war there is no defense through a simple weapon, either the B-36 carrying the A-bomb or by any other weapon on land or sea or in the air. War then takes on the pattern of World War II with tactical aviation and adequate forces for amphibious landings and naval protection. Strictly speaking the effect is just the same as if the warring nations had agreed in advance to prohibit the use of the A-bomb as they banned the use of poison gas. When neutralization of weapons occurs, wars are fought with the previous existing weapons.

6. America's best defense lies in better use of weapons—better training and larger numbers of good weapons than the enemy possesses, and also such a strategic distribution of military, naval and air forces in conjunction with the western democracies as to make it apparent in advance that success for Russia in land war is highly risky and doubtful.

The theory that the United States will provide intercontinental bombing by B-36's while the Europeans try to hold off the Russian armies is not likely to be palatable to European governments. In a moment of terror they may suddenly turn over the stockpile of A-bombs and give them possession of fixed land bases.

The United States must not depend on a single plant but a flexible plan of defense. To supplement strategic bombing there must be allied forces that can engage in "pin-point" bombing. This means low level operations by bombers which are protected by fighter escort planes. This means that if fixed bases in Europe are lost either by enemy fire or by surrender to land armies of the enemy, the United States and Britain must have aircraft carrier task forces in adjacent waters to maintain promptly. A Carrier Task Force can disperse so quickly that if enemy planes did get through a radar screen it would not be worth while for the enemy to waste precious A-bombs on targets of single ships which are difficult to hit anyway except by pin-point bombers. A Carrier Task Force operates in constant readiness and can furnish more concentrated and accurate power in a shorter interval than any fixed base. The ratio is said to be three planes a minute that can get into the air against one plane a minute from land bases.

Plainly the whole military strategy of the United States will now have to be re-examined and the House Armed Services Committee will soon have a real opportunity to depart from the one-weapon psychology which has dominated it thus far and appraise the advantages of what the late Secretary Forrestal with prophetic wisdom called a "balanced defense."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 25—During the recent commotion over the British financial mess there occurred in one of the letters, pro and con written by Englishmen, a frank and startling statement that the writer no longer felt loyal to his country. He did not enlarge on that. The English are strongly patriotic. To be sure, many of them did leave home to settle in the colonies and the United States. But those who went to the colonies remained under the flag and patriotic to the flag of the Empire and some of those who became citizens of this country remained, in heart, Englishmen for a long time. I do not solicit argument, but do suggest that the Englishman's love of homeland was stronger than the Italian's or the German's or the Pole's.

People cut loose from their native countries only for very strong reasons. The continental European countries, except France, whose people for some reason unknown to me are conspicuous home-bodies, sent us great migrations which are sometimes described as the wretched refuse of their teeming shores. I never cared much for that figure of speech. They had been overcrowded and a few appear to have left in protest against ill-treatment. The people native often is attributed to all of them although the fact is pointed out by the Hon. John C. Knox, a senior judge of the United States courts, that the commonest reason was a fair and quite respectable desire of the individual to live a more abundant material life.

It has hitherto been unthinkable to middle-class and higher-class Englishmen below the aristocracy, who are a special case, that they should ever give up England in disgust and despair. That the proposition is still repugnant I have no doubt, but just the same many Englishmen are disgusted and desperate.

What is a patriot patriotic to? To a flag? To earth exactly like earth elsewhere? Rocks and hills and temples hills similar to others in some country far away? To neighbors and streets and familiar scenes? To a government, perhaps?

If I were an Englishman today I should hate the government of my country and try to get some other citizenship. You may say that it is not the government which I should hate. That is hair-splitting. Yet I hate the party and many of the persons who control and operate our government, but my loyalty to something is still ardent. Loyalty to what? Truman? Not gratuitously, just to exercise my freedom of expression, I think he is terrible. I think he is worse than he need be because he is tossing our constitutional rights to the wolves or

Questions—Answers

Q—Is there a planet, or some other astronomical object, called Miranda?

A—This name has been assigned to a new satellite of the planet Uranus which was discovered in February, 1948. The four satellites that had been known previously are named Ariel, Umbriel, Titania and Oberon.

Q—Was York, Pa., once the capital of the United States?

A—York was the capital of the United States in 1777-78, during which time the Continental Congress adopted the Articles of Confederation.

Q—How soon after feeding should a dog be given his daily exercise?

A—If possible exercise before feeding. Otherwise wait at least 30 minutes after the dog has eaten before taking him out.

Q—What city had the first subway in the world?

A—London, which completed its first subway in 1900.

Wadlin Is Speaker At Paltz Meeting

At a regular monthly meeting of the League of Women's Voters of New Paltz at the New Paltz Central High School, September 22, Assemblyman John F. Wadlin spoke on "Legislative Methods, Practices, Procedures and Expenditures" and of his membership on the Anderson Committee which made a thorough study of these subjects.

Some of the committee's "streamlined" recommendations were accepted by the legislature even before the publication of their interim report. The first report urged the adoption of 30 recommendations involving statutory changes and 32 involving administrative changes. "A result of the study was to bring our own legislature abreast of significant changes and reforms effected by other legislative bodies," he said.

Mr. Wadlin spoke of attending a joint legislative committee meeting on labor and industrial relations last week in New York. The topic under consideration was that of rehabilitation. He told of the great progress recently reported in this field.

He also pointed out the advisability of constituents interested in the passage of new laws or amendments to old ones not waiting until the regular annual session in January to make their wants known, but that they should express their wishes to their representatives at any time.

Mr. Allan, president of the New Paltz Chapter, gave a resume of the purposes of the league.

Long Jaunt on Bicycle

New Delhi (AP)—A French cyclist arrived here recently after an 8,000-mile cycle tour covering 14 countries in eight months. He is on his way to Saigon. Thirty-eight-year-old Lionel Bruns set out from Paris November 14. He traveled on a specially-built bicycle with carriers attached to contain his clothing, food, water and spare parts. Himself a cycle manufacturer, the purpose of his tour is to prove the capabilities of his own machine. He also hopes to set up factories in the Near East and Asia. In a talk to pressmen here, he said he was twice waylaid by bandits—once in the Yugoslav-Bulgarian border and later in Jordan, but he managed to escape. He encountered severe cold weather in Iran, necessitating his stay in hospital for a fortnight.

Indians Use Historic Bell

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—A historic church bell that made its way into Arizona in 1860 by way of an overland freight now echoes in Supai land at the bottom of Arizona's Grand Canyon. The bell, which once served as the fire alarm at the little community of Chino in Mohave county, hangs in St. Andrew's Episcopal chapel in the Indian settlement. It was taken down the trail into the canyon by pack train. The chapel in which it hangs, a quonset hut, was lowered into the canyon last spring by helicopter. Stone quarries from the sides of the canyon were used for the sides and front of the chapel.

Crow Convention

There was a convention of crows up our way. I didn't sit in the meeting but I viewed it from a distance with admiration and wonder at the wisdom of the saucy black fellows.

Near sundown the sky was dark with flocks of crows coming from many directions. They came in groups and arrived at about the same time. As each flock came it circled overhead a moment, then settled down in a cluster and kept to itself; yet close enough to the others to show that all were members of some sort of clan or organization.

ONCE ON THE GROUND there was a kind of milling about, while the delegates said hello to others whom they probably hadn't seen since the last convention. I could imagine them swapping yarns, tipping off a newly discovered cornfield or seeking votes for a pet candidate. It was for all the world like men's meetings—that hubbub which precedes the stroke of the gavel which calls the meeting to order.

Eventually a good-sized flock was well filled with crows. Out in front were a dozen or more fellows that must have been the officers. They strutted about in an open space, larger than that occupied by the others.

They seemed to be conferring and checking up on the agenda. After all the flocks from various nearby woods had arrived and taken their places, the leaders gave their signal and the meeting came to order. The signal appeared to be a concert of caws from the officers who also fluttered a few feet off the ground and promptly returned to their places.

It was then that my greatest admiration for crows was aroused. I had always known they are tricky buggers and very smart. I once was part owner of a tame one which would steal anything bright which wasn't nailed down and cache it heaven knows where. I also knew that crows live to a ripe old age and develop uncanny craft and cunning. I had read almost unbelievable stories about them; even as many disbelieve this accurate report of a crow convention.

AS SOON AS the leaders had settled back on the ground every one of the hundreds of crows ceased their wanderings and their cawing. They seemed to hurry to a spot next to a pal, as a delegate does at a convention. Promptly all took their places and were quiet. Every crow faced front, in the direction of their leaders. There was no delay and no shouting for order. The meeting was immediately in session.

After a moment of quiet, the invocation maybe, there was a bit of excitement up front. The officers put some kind of question by caws and wing flutter. The delegates answered and some rose a bit from the ground, then right back. This thing went on for some minutes.

It was difficult to note any great difference in the manner a proposal was presented or much difference in the reaction of the delegates, except that at times the response seemed a bit more enthusiastic. Probably that was a vote on more pay and shorter hours.

When the meeting was at an end, the leaders flew away first, each in his own direction. Then all rose as one black mass, took their routes homeward as a squadron of fighter planes would quickly choose a course and wing out of sight. Not a crow remained in the field.

A MAN WHO KNOWS some crow lore, which I don't, says the meeting could have been a trial of the drones. He says crows will not tolerate loafers or cripples in their midst; that they are given a hearing but if convicted of laziness or physical disability they are put to death. Which reminded me that I never have seen a dead crow that seemed to have died a natural death.

Perhaps some reader of this strange, true story may be able to give more interesting explanation, which I will be glad to pass on. (Copyright 1949, General Features Corp.)

ST. REMY

St. Remy, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Annabella King, tax collector for School District 5, will collect taxes at her home until October 10 at one per cent.

The Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce will show sound movies in the Town Auditorium Tuesday, Sept. 27, at 9 p. m. The following pictures will be shown, "Apple Land," "Winter in New York State," and "You and Your State—Play Town." These pictures are in color and are free to the public.

Mrs. J. M. Frost spent last week-end in Springfield, Mass.

The Ladies' Missionary Society held its annual harvest sale last week and realized $28.20.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hirschman and daughter, Ellen, spent last week-end in Schenectady.

Miss Delores Hoffman accompanied Mrs. H. Heroy of New Paltz last week to Springfield.

Polio Costs

POLIO COSTS are paid by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis when patients or their families cannot meet the heavy cost of medical care unassisted. More than $17,000,000 in March of Dimes funds were spent last year on patient care alone. The present epidemic emergency probably will cost even more if cases continue higher than last year. Thousands of stricken children need treatment NOW. And thousands will need continuing treatment for months—even years—to come. The National Foundation's epidemic aid fund is dwindling fast. The need for more money is urgent. Dimes and dollars now can mean delivery from fear. Send your contribution today in an envelope addressed to POLIO, care of your local Post Office.

THE CORN IS GREEN.—Indianapolis may not have grass growing in its streets, but the corn is green on the sidewalk—at least one lone stalk pushing up through a crack in the concrete is. Gas station attendant Joe Tisen doesn't know how it happened to spring there, but he faithfully cares for the plant in hopes of a "bumper crop" later in the season.

KERHONKSON

Kerhonkson, Sept. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Claude Terwilliger and son, Claude, were dinner guests Saturday night of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. MacAvery in Kingston. The dinner party was in honor of the birthdays of Mrs. Terwilliger and Mrs. MacAvery's father, Herman Germer. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Germer, Jr., and son of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Green and daughter will leave this week for the west coast where Mr. Green is stationed with the army. They have been spending 30 days on furlough.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Joyce entertained guests from Pennsylvania over the week-end.

Mrs. Grover Smith entertained the Home Bureau last week.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Southwick Club in Napanoch Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stockin entertained visitors from New Jersey during the week-end.

M. Bush and Don Griffo were week-end visitors in New York and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wright and son, Pat, are spending a week with friends in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schall entertained out of town guests during the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mance and son, Edward, of Ellenville were guests Sunday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Terwilliger.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Brown are vacationing in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. John Billias entertained guests during the weekend. They included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brillias and daughter of New York, Miss Genevieve Billias and friend of Connecticut and Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Stanton and son of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete LeBovet and Mr. and Mrs. Vinal Cyr returned Sunday after spending the week in Maine.

The County Council of the V.F.W. met in New Paltz Sunday. Those from the local post attending were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Van Etten, Al Brookbank, William Davis, Violet Smith and Mrs. Richard J. Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Poughkeepsie spent the week-end with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Abrahams are visiting in New York.

Mrs. Edward Smith of Plattsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith and sons of New Jersey were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Coddington Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Smith of Napanoch were callers on Sunday.

For the Enrichment of Life

RIGHT AT THIS MOMENT, there are thousands of people in America who are debating whether to end all compromise with motor cars—by taking the step up to Cadillac.

To all these people we should like to say: "Longfellow was right when he penned the words—'Time is fleeting.'"

If you want a Cadillac, and feel that you are entitled to one, you ought to make arrangements at once to have one delivered into your possession.

Each day you forego it, you will lose a goodly measure of happiness and satisfaction—for a Cadillac is a joy to possess, and a joy to utilize. Many say that it adds to the zest of their whole day's activities.

Certain it is that a Cadillac brings with it the utmost in performance, in comfort, and in safety—and that it contributes immeasurably to its owner's peace of mind. Few, indeed, can be happy without a Cadillac—once they have learned how greatly it enriches their lives.

If you are among the many who have the impulse to own a Cadillac, come in and see us soon. Each day you delay means a loss in satisfaction which no other material possession can hope to supply.

Van Etten to Lead Ulster Veterans At V.F.W. Parley

District Commander Roy H. Milligan has called upon all members of District No. 2 of the V.F.W. to have all souvenirs rendered harmless. There is some Federal agency near you, stated Milligan, where these weapons can be treated to make them safe.

The District will observe the 50th Anniversary of the V.F.W. at its Fall Convention on October 8-9, 1949 in Harrison, N. Y. Commander Joseph P. Matthews of Florida Park, Long Island, will render the principal address.

County Commander Donald Van Etten of Kerhonkson, Past County Comdr. Pat Pecenka and Raymond P. Rogers and John McCarthy and his famed Gln Band of Newburgh also District Auxiliary President, Kathryn Crawford of Middletown will lead the Hudson Valley delegation to the convention.

District No. Two covers ten southern counties: Bronx, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Richmond, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster, Westchester and New York.

The main purpose of V.F.W. Districts are educational: to instruct the various post officers, mainly Service Officers, so they may better serve their communities.

Support Is Given

San Francisco, Sept. 26 (AP)—Manchuria has given "full support" to the Communists' plan for their national government of China, the Red radio said today. This seemed to indicate there was nothing to speculation abroad that Manchuria might stay outside of a Red regime for China and be a pro-Russian independent.

Bunche Given Praise As Leading Diplomat

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ranks United Nations officer Dr. Ralph Bunche among America's top statesmen.

Speaking yesterday at the dedication of a boys' building at the Harlem branch of the Y.M.C.A., Eisenhower termed Bunche "one of the greatest statesmen this country has produced."

Bunche, an American Negro, acted as U.N. mediator for Palestine. Recently he turned down the post of U. S. Assistant Secretary of State to continue his work with the U. N. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, also praised the wartime record of American Negro soldiers. And he hailed the progress of the Negro race in various fields during peacetime.

similar to outer Mongolia. The Red radio quoted Manchuria's delegate to the political consultative conference at Peiping as saying Manchuria would be "a heavy industrial base" for Communist China. The conference is setting up the Red's permanent government.

ANYTHING GOES FOR A DOWN PAYMENT—Employees of Barney Teal, right above, Detroit auto dealer, unload a customer's "down payment" on a used car. In this case, the down payment was a used radio. Teal's ingenious swappers will accept any item of value—from a fur coat to a piece of real estate—as part payment on their autos. Business has doubled since they developed the "anything goes" idea.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

The world economy and the economy of the United States are both resting on high stilts. The stilts are a bit shaky, but should hold erect for some time to come.

By way of exaggerated illustration, visualize a heavy stone house, perched up in the air, with only wooden corner posts for the foundation.

Let the stone house represent the debt load. The wooden posts, or stilts, are the supports which we'll characterize as (a) purchasing power, (b) price support, (c) inflation of the money supply, (d) security payments of all kinds.

Our imagined structure is bulging on all sides—it is inflated. The weight of the house—the debt load—exceeds the safety margin.

This fanciful picture helps to bring home to us the delicate economic balance prevailing throughout the world, and in the United States also.

So long as everything runs along smoothly and prosperity remains with us the debt load will not become alarming. The interest on this debt can be paid comfortably while the national income keeps prosperously above the $200 billion mark.

The world-wide devaluation of currencies this past week, however, is a stiff reminder to everyone of us that the underpinnings of world economies constantly require additional props.

The future danger lies in the fact that each added prop has less strength than the previous ones. To say it another way, as inflationary hypodermics are shot into the economy they have less and less effect.

The United States' economy is of course the best-supported in the world today. But that is no assurance that our supports, also, will not give away in time, unless orthodox policies are adopted at some future time. Inasmuch as the trend of world thinking—and thinking in this country, also—is away from orthodox economic principles and toward artificial bolstering, the long-term outlook is not pleasant to contemplate.

Referring back to our supports under the heavy structure, let us discuss them.

Purchasing power, which today is extraordinarily high, is obviously the main support. As long as the national income, so-called, remains huge, it follows that the "gross national product" will stay at high levels, also. The result is prosperity in the nation. During a boom everything runs along happily. People have money to spend, and spend it. Taxes, while punishing, are accepted. Industry builds additions to plants, and workers draw high pay. Savings are added to, as are also time-payment obligations for gadgets and cars.

To maintain purchasing power at inflated levels, price supports are inaugurated for those products which might suffer from over-production. Thus, purchasing power in those categories is artificially maintained.

As a general over-all stimulant to maintain economic health the money supply in the nation is constantly increased. Money is cheap to borrow.

Finally, in order to stimulate people to spend money and to ward off "fears" ("fear of want and fear of insecurity") various and sundry security payments have been devised. Perhaps as good a definition of prevailing philosophy along this line of economic paternalism was expressed recently by Professor Carroll R. Daugherty of Northwestern University. Professor Daugherty acted as chairman of the Steel Fact-finding Board. He added a postscript, you will recall, to the formal board report, which outlined his economic theories of wages and his contradictions of certain Keynesian propositions which have become tenets of New Dealism.

In his doctrine in the special footnote he expressed this thought: (point "d") "The provisions of cash, medical, and retirement benefits should increase the amount of certainty among households and stabilize their consumption spending." In plain words, a recommended policy of social security payments and pensions is now projected for the future upon the basis that thereby people will feel more secure and therefore will spend more freely! And save less!

Do you notice the chain of modern economic tinkering? Keep wages up for active purchasing power. Add security payments so people will keep on spending. Force money into circulation and continually make it cheaper.

In some quarters we are told, and expected to believe, the long view is not inflationary! The long view suggests to this contrary observer that the stilts "sometime" will splinter off and the whole structure crash to the ground. Fortunately, this seems a long time off, but maybe we ought to prepare for it well in advance.

Stamford Woman Can't Beat Funeral

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 26 (AP)—Carol Paignt whose "mercy bullet" killed her father, police Sergeant Carl W. Paignt in his hospital bed, will not be allowed to attend his funeral here today. Instead she will remain under police guard in Stamford Hospital, charged with homicide and scheduled to undergo comprehensive mental tests.

State's Attorney Lorin W. Willis yesterday decided to take the case directly to the Superior Court should results of mental tests warrant. Papers precluding the usual hearing in city court were served on Miss Paignt yesterday. Hospital authorities said Carol was "expressionless" during the reading of the papers and that she was manifested little interest in anything since he first hysterical outburst after the shooting.

The funeral of Sergeant Paignt will be held from the First Methodist Church here at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Twelve members of his police squad will take part, six as pall bearers, four as an honor guard and two as ushers. The American Legion post will also pay their respects to their late comrade with military services in Fairfield Memorial Park.

Delegations from municipal departments, civic organizations and fraternal orders will attend the services.

Sergeant Paignt was fatally wounded in his room at the Stamford Hospital last Friday. His 20-year-old daughter, Carol, a student at New England College, Henniker, N. H., told police she shot her father after doctors had told the family he was incurably ill with cancer. She said, according to Police Chief John B. Brennan that she did so "to prevent him from suffering."

The other night at Lindy's, I had trouble reading the small type on the menu.

"Can you recommend a good eye doctor?" I asked Milton Berle who was sharing my table.

"I know a nip," said the television comedian. "He'll tell you in a minute whether you're a man of vision—or whether the reports have been exaggerated."

The next day I dropped in to see the optician.

"I don't know if it means anything," I said. "but of late the electric lights have been bothering my eyes."

"You mean," said Berle's doctor, "that as far as you're concerned, Maada's in the cold, cold ground."

"Looks as if Milton pays you off in jokes," I said.

The optician adjusted the notal disk on his forehead, peered into my peepers and then put me through the read-the-last-line-backwards routine.

"All kidding aside," he said, "you have an unusual malady. The only people who get it are men and women. It's known as overstrain, and it's caused by living in the Twentieth Century."

"My eyes get bloodshot now and then," I said.

"Don't brood about it," said the doctor. "If your enemies don't shoot until they see the whites of your eyes, you can count on a long life."

"Very reassuring," I said, "but isn't it serious when the blood that's supposed to go to your head goes to your eyes?"

"Not necessarily," said the optician, "and to prove my point let me tell you a story that Berle told me recently."

Not long ago, Milton met up with an old friend whose eyeballs looked like chunks of overripe watermelon.

"Where'd you get the blood-shot eyes?" asked Berle.

"It's a grim story," said his friend. "One night a while back I was standing at a bar, minding my own brandy, when a girl breezed in. Besides having a catchy kisser and a chaste chassis, she looked like a heck of a nice fella, and so I invited her to have a drink."

"Well, it turned out that we had an awful lot in common—we both liked cocker spaniels, convertibles with the top down and pizza pie with anchovies. So, when dinner time rolled around, I suggested we have a snack together, and by the time we had finished our crepes suzettes, I was so taken with her that I invited her to see 'South Pacific.' And to show you how much I thought of the girl, when she accepted I went out and found two tickets to 'South Pacific.'"

"After that, I saw her every night. We would dine at '21, dance at El Morocco, and when the town folded usually go for a drive on Long Island."

"One night on the way home, I noticed the girl wasn't saying much, and when we pulled up in front of her place she squeezed my hand and invited me in for a nightcap. When we got to her apartment, she looked at me tenderly for a long time and then burst into tears.

"What's the matter, darling?" I asked.

"What we're doing is wrong," she sobbed. "I'm a married woman."

"It developed her husband was in England on business, and the first thing I knew I was in tears myself."

"Dearest," I said, "I may as well come clean. I'm married, too."

"Then, we both broke down, and for a long time we just held hands and cried our hearts out together."

"And, as you know, when you cry every night for six months, your eyes are a cinch to get bloodshot."

Oh, Those Dirty Dogs

Berlin, Germany (AP)—The mayor of a small upper-Bavarian town found something had to be done about poaching dogs. So he had signs put up, warning dog owners "Those who have dogs and run around without leashes, will be shot." A critical citizen said it should be made clear that the dogs would be shot, and not the owners. The mayor had the sign changed to read: "Those who have dogs and run around without leashes, will be shot—the dogs."

Mouse Nest Time

Broadus, Mont. (AP)—Because of a bus strike, Redcap Sam Wallace was away from work a long time. So long that when he finally came back, he found a mouse had set up housekeeping in one of his work shoes.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Philip Chopay, the former Izora Giles, and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Greenwald, all of Springfield Gardens, L. I., have been spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Chopay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Giles of the old state road.

Herman Roeder, Rondout grocery store proprietor who did in Kingston Wednesday, was a resident of Ashokan several years ago. He conducted a general merchandising business in the Chester Lyons store building.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrihew of Brodhead were callers in the village center Thursday evening.

Paul H. Harbach, Buffalo resident who has contracted to design the proposed Ontario central district school plant at Boiceville, received his degree in architecture at Cornell University in 1917. He has designed 23 school projects totalling approximately $9 million and is now engaged upon the plans for an educational center at Orchard Park. Drawings and specifications for the Boiceville building which will be made with the accommodation of 920 pupils in view, are expected to be bids of contractors about April 15, 1950, and it is figured that the school will be ready for classes in September, 1951.

Pleasant sights along the Trail here include the mountain ash trees at the corner store which are now displaying their scarlet, berry-like fruit. Other fine specimens of this rare tree include those in Mrs. Ezra Green's yard at Ashokan.

Republicans of the reservoir country are of course well pleased with Sen. Arthur H. Wicks' continuing service as county chairman of their party. Olivettes recall with not inconsiderable pride that Arthur as a young man worked on the big waterworks job, and that he married a charming and musically talented Olive Bridge girl (Grace Everett).

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Rosenbusch, new proprietors of the Shokan Tavern, are improving their property by the addition of a bathroom.

The twin villages are represented on the new Democratic town slate by Justus North, named for supervisor of Olive, and Grant Avery, former town superintendent who was nominated for justice of the peace. On the Republican side, the local designates include Lemuel DuBois, collector; Homer Markle, Jr., assessor, and Earl Brundage for justice of the peace.

The leak in the big telephone trunkline cable along Route 28 which had been bothering maintenance men for several days, was located Wednesday at Winchell's Corners, not far from the brick automatic central building. It was reported as being quite a hole, too, such as conceivably might be made with a 22 rifle slug. The air surrounding the numerous wires in the cable is purposeful kept pe-moated with nitrogen gas supplied from cylindrical tanks attached at intervals to the cable poles, thus by its odor, enabling linemen, using ladders and aerial carriers, to discover and repair the damage before rain water collects inside. These trouble-shooters and splicers are youthful looking fellows who appear to know their business.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Peck, Sr., summer residents of the Coons district of Shokan, expect to leave Shokan Tuesday on a motor trip to the picturesque Finger Lakes country. The Pecks, upon their return trip plan to continue on to their winter quarters in Manhattan. R. B. Peck is a member of the editorial staff of the Herald-Tribune.

Israeli Adopt New Names

Singapore, (AP)—Scientists are at work on experiments at the King Edward VII College of Medicine to determine whether warships in Far Eastern Waters should "tropicalized" to suit climatic conditions. Surgeon Commander F. P. Ellis, who heads the unit, explained the work: "The Admiralty was interested in climatic problems during the war, when reports from warships in tropical waters suggested that severity of the heat between decks was likely to interfere with the fighting efficiency of the fleet, if it was involved in prolonged actions with the enemy." Naval ratings volunteered to undergo the tests under which actual conditions aboard certain compartments of warships are simulated.

Terrorist Becomes Legend

Alor Star, Malaya, (AP)—Wan Ali, the Communist terrorist leader who has boasted he could only be killed with a "silver bullet" but fell before ordinary guns fired by ordinary town guards recently, is already becoming a legend in Pahang state. A play based on the slain Malay terrorist's career was staged as part of the town's welfare week programme. Government servants took the leading roles.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

My father just received a New Year's card from Fred Dennis, pharmacist, who is now retired and living at Rockford, Ill. Mr. Dennis was a pharmacist in Kingston for some 60 years. He came to this city, I understand, in 1885. His first job was at John and Samuel Brower drug store in the old Liscomb Opera House Theatre, which is the Orpheum today. Then on Jan. 2, 1888, he went with the famous drug house of Van Deusen Bros. on the Strand, and in March of 1899 he went with the Connolly Drug Co. He stayed with Henry Connolly until Mr. Connolly retired, and Carl Weber bought the drug company. He remained with him on the corner of Strand and Broadway until several years ago. I remember how Mr. Dennis used to stride from his home on Wurts street, overlooking the Hudson, down to the drug store. I always admired his dexterity and speed with which he wrapped packages.

Mrs. May Perkins of Connolly called after my Thursday evening column to let me know she had a 1909 and 1910 city directory, in case I had a chance to someday run over and see them.

Running through the "Rondout Freeman" of April 4, 1866, owned by the Matthews family, the following may be of interest to old canal men: "Notice to boatmen: rates for freight and terms for renting coal for the Delaware and Hudson Canal Co. on their canal, and the Hudson River, during the Hudson season of 1866. The D. & H. Canal Co. are now prepared to receive applications for boats to be contracted for and employed in freighting coal from Honesdale to Rondout and intermediate places on the line of the canal and also to New York, and other places on the North river."

"The rate of freight for boats making trips from Rondout to Honesdale, and returning laden with coal, will be during the season of 1866 $1 per gross ton, and in proportion for less distances. All full trips ending at Rondout. The boats to be unloaded by the company or consignee, without charge to the boatmen. The boatmen, however, to trim the boat, tend guy, etc., as formerly."

"Demurrage at the rate of $3 per day will be paid for all detention, beyond the control of the boatmen, of over two full working days, in loading at Honesdale, and also in unloading at Rondout. An installment of $20 will be reserved from the freight on each trip toward the payment of the boat. There will also be reserved $7 and the fraction of a dollar, out of the freight of each trip, until the close of the season, as per contract. The full freight from Rondout to New York will be 18 cents per gross ton, reserving therefrom $6 per trip toward the payment of the boat. The freight and installments to be in proportion for less distances."

"Demurrage at the rate of $4 per day will be paid for all absence from Rondout beyond the control of the boatmen, of over three working days on river trips to New York. Towing and wharfage free. Applications to be made personally or by letter to the undersigned, at the office of the D. & H. Canal Co., Honesdale, Pa. or to R. B. Atwater, Esq., Rondout, N. Y. or to the superintendent on the line of the canal.—C. F. Young, Supt. of Canal—Honesdale, March 1, 1866."

Effects of Tropics

Tel Aviv, Israel, (AP)—New Hebrew names have been adopted by 17,000 people in Israel during the past year. Authorities in the new state have been encouraging the idea. It is thought especially appropriate for officials and employees of the government. David Ben Gurion, the premier, has a Hebrew name that he adopted as a youth. It means "David, son of Gurion." It also has a historic significance. Joseph Ben Gurion was a leader in the Jewish revolt against Rome in 66 A.D.

James Henderson Boyd, Newburgh, Married Adele Elizabeth Furman, Saturday Afternoon

Miss Adele Elizabeth Furman, daughter of Mrs. Ethel Furman of 203 Abbot street, and the late Howard I. Furman, became the bride of James Henderson Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Watson W. Boyd, 65 Carter street, Newburgh, Saturday at 2 p. m. in St. John's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector, performed the double ring ceremony. Dr. O. Lincoln Igo was organist playing the traditional wedding selections and marches. The altar was decorated with yellow and white pompons. The bride was given in marriage by John Purvis, her uncle. She wore a champagne satin street length dress with headpiece of fresh pink roses and pink tulle veil, pink lace mitts and carried a white satin prayer book with pink roses and pink streamers. Miss Dolores Costello of Lake Katrine as maid of honor wore a marine blue satin street length dress with headpiece identical to the bride's and carried an old fashioned bouquet of roses and crushed carnations. Warren Boyd, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert Purvis and John E. Purvis, cousins of the bride. A reception for the immediate families and close friends was held in the parish hall. Out-of-town guests were from Newburgh, Valley Stream, West Camp, New York; Fordale, Richmond Hill, Brooklyn, New Jersey and Connecticut. The bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip to New York. For traveling she wore a brown glen plaid suit with brown accessories and white topper. They will live at 245 First street, Newburgh. Mrs. Boyd attended Kingston High School and Spencer's Business School. She was employed as an operator by the New York Telephone Co. Mr. Boyd is a graduate of Newburgh Free Academy and served four years in the navy. He is employed by Liner's Express.

Gilbert F. Gibbs, Photographer, Weds Dolores V. Swart at First Dutch Church

The wedding of Miss Dolores Virginia Swart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Swart, Sr., Albany avenue extension, to Gilbert Frederick Gibbs of Newark, N. J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Gibbs of 46 Lounsbury Place, was performed at 2 p. m. Sunday in the First Dutch Reformed Church. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Caroline Little as organist in addition to the wedding marches played on Wings of Song by Mendelssohn; Be Thou But Near, Bach; and Serenade, Pierné, before the ceremony and the hymn, O Perfect Love, as the vows were said. Mrs. Harry C. Seitz sang I Love You Truly, and Because. The altar was decorated with two bouquets of huge white chrysanthemums and seven branch candelabra. Mr. Swart gave his daughter in

Shultis-Payne Marriage Announced

Woodstock, Sept. 26—The marriage of Miss Joan Eldyne Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Payne, Shady, to Eugene E. Shultis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Shultis, Wittenberg, was performed Sunday, September 18, at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. James Riorden, pastor of St. Joan of Arc Chapel, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Walter McTigue was organist. The chapel was decorated with white gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown made with square neckline trimmed with diamond sequins, and skirt terminating in a long train. Her net was carried with a coronet and she carried a basket of pink gladioli.

Mrs. David Sterons of Arlington, Va., as matron of honor, wore an ice blue satin gown with matching halo hat and carried a basket of orange gladioli. Suzanne Duchene of Chapeau, Quebec, cousin of the bride, as flower girl wore a white satin gown and carried a basket of pink gladioli.

Sherwood Shultis of Wittenberg was best man for his brother. Ushers were Roger Cashdollar of Wittenberg and Jacob Schatzel of Kingston. Thomas R. Payne was ring bearer.

A reception for about 200 guests was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall, Bearsville. Out-of-town guests were present from Newburgh, Chicago, Quebec, New York, Kingston, New Jersey and Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Shultis left for a wedding trip to Canada and Chicago, Ill. She wore a brown polk bonnet, suit shoes and corsage of white gladioli, and carried a brown sash bag. They will live in Wittenberg.

Mrs. Shultis is a graduate of Kingston High School and Central Academy of Beauty Culture, Newburgh. She is employed at Mickey's Beauty Shop, Kingston.

Mr. Shultis attended Kingston High School and served in the army two and a half years, and was overseas in Europe. He is employed at Neede's Express.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

NEWSPAPERS FOLLOW OWN CUSTOM

This reader is evidently quoting a column not mine: "The other week you advised the listing of the bride and groom's names in an engagement notice in newspapers, as having the bridegroom's name come first. The society page editor in my paper must surely have ignored his eyes in embarrassment because every one of his engagement notices has the future bride's name first."

The question I specifically answered, and I have just checked in my file to make sure, asked about the listing of marriage announcements, not engagement announcements. The majority of our newspapers list the groom's name first. But engagements always announce the girl's name first. In short, it could not have been my column.

Shower Gift a Mist

Dear Mrs. Post: Am I required to send another gift in this instance? First I went to the engagement party and sent a gift and now I am invited to a shower party? Will the other gift be sufficient?

Answer: The first gift was not a requirement but this second, to the shower, is. You would have to take (or send ahead of time) a gift, but it not only could but should be no more than a trifle.

Parting Words

Dear Mrs. Post: When I visited a relative lately I met one of her neighbors—a man. He spent an hour or so there, and then left. I said good-by, of course, but not the usual "good to have met you," etc. I thought if anyone said it he should! In fact, I never did think about either one of us saying it until she reminded me later that I hadn't been very polite not to say something nice about his coming.

Answer: Nothing was necessary. He might have said it was pleasant meeting you and you in turn might have answered "Thank you!" That's all.

Who Leaves First?

Dear Mrs. Post: When husband and wife, or any man and girl, go to see friends together, which one should make the first move to leave?

Answer: In the case of a man and wife, there is no rule. And although the girl should perhaps make the first move, he may quite properly do so if necessary.

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 594, "The Etiquette of Table Setting," answers many questions about silver, linen, table decorations and candlesticks. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a recent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y. Home Bureau News

The first meeting of the fall garden series presented by the Ulster County Home Bureau was conducted September 20 at the municipal auditorium where Professor Donald Bushey from the department of ornamental horticulture at the College of Agriculture and Ernest Schaulier, 4-H Club specialist, addressed a large crowd of enthusiastic women gardeners.

The subject of the meeting was "Replanting Perennials." Professor Bushey showed slides of perennial gardens which were part of the whole landscaping of a home. The first consideration in planting home grounds according to Professor Bushey is to consider the family's use of the grounds. Each family has its own interests and hobbies and these will be reflected in the plans. The slides Professor Bushey showed were in color and enabled those present to see the various effects obtained by different specimens.

Mr. Schaulier, in discussing the problem of moving perennials, said that plants are like human beings and require different kinds of care and attention. It is well to know the habits of a flower before deciding to transplant it. For example, sun loving plants should not be in shady places, he said. Each plant has its particular need in terms of soil conditions, sun or shade, etc. and to obtain the best results this must be known in advance. Therefore, the important thing to do is to choose only those plants that will grow on one's grounds.

He added when it comes to transplanting, the time varies according to the plant. It should be done when the roots are dormant. Iris, for example, can be transplanted in July and August, peonies in September.

As an aid to gardeners, Mr. Schaulier recommended U.S.D.A. Farmers' Bulletin 1381, "Herbaceous Perennials." A question and answer period followed the morning's discussions by Professor Bushey and Mr. Schaulier.

In the afternoon the group met at the home of Mrs. Ernest LeFever in Hurley where a perennial border was started. Plants were brought by members of the group to be used in planting and many of Mrs. LeFever's plants were ready for transplanting.

Professor Bushey recommended that a plan for a perennial garden be drawn up in advance in color. This makes it possible to obtain a pleasing effect throughout the blooming season, he pointed out. He and Mr. Schaulier used the materials present to demonstrate how plants should be divided, how they should be placed according to height of growth, space needed for their full development and for succession in bloom.

In discussing the preparation of a bed for planting, Mr. Schaulier suggested that a two-inch layer of manure be worked in 8 to 10 inches deep in the soil and a complete fertilizer to the amount of three pounds for 100 square feet.

Plants should not be set in V-shaped holes. The hole should be large enough to allow for the natural shape of the roots. The ground should be tamped down around each plant avoiding a mound of dirt which causes water to run off instead of gradually seeping into the roots.

During the demonstration, Mr. Schaulier discussed the growing needs of various perennials such as those of chrysanthemums, irises, bergamots, lilacs, etc.

About 85 people attended the meeting. The next in the garden series which is open to the public will be held Friday, November 18, at the municipal auditorium. The topic will be "Winter Houseplants."

Japanese Quince
Several questions have been received at the Home Bureau Office regarding the use of Japanese quince for preserves. The food and nutrition specialist reports that it can be used for it has a high pectin content and is to be used like ordinary quince for jellies or preserves. However, she says the fruit is so small that not many people will want to bother with it.

Kerhonkson Unit

The Kerhonkson Home Bureau unit held its first regular meeting and fall rally recently at the home of Mrs. Grover Smith in Kerhonkson. Mrs. David Lepew was the co-hostess. Following a covered dish supper, the business meeting followed with Mrs. Arthur Crose, the new chairman, presiding. Other officers performing their duties were Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins, vice-chairman; Mrs. Zeigler Abraham, secretary; and Mrs. Oscar Van Etten, treasurer. The program for the coming year was reviewed and it was announced that at a later date the members will visit Syke's Museum in Accord.

Mrs. Abraham, citizenship leader, reported on old age and survivors' insurance under the Social Security Act.

The county fall meeting will be held October 13 at the Accord Methodist Church.

At the next meeting in October at the home of Mrs. Anna Poole in Pataulunk recipes will be exchanged.

Lomontville

Lomontville Home Bureau met recently at the community hall for the rally meeting. During the business meeting in the forenoon, Miss Everlee Parsons, home demonstration agent, visited and showed the apron kit to the unit. A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed and Mrs. John Hamm of High Falls gave a discussion on the making of aluminum trays.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, September 28, at the home of Mrs. Willy Kohler when the unit will have Lesson 1 on Foods for the Family.

New members who joined the unit were Mrs. William Elliott, Mrs. R. Lyke, Mrs. Edna Jansen, Mrs. Bauers. Others present were Mrs. Mmes. Gordon Helbert, Oscar Kalka, Walter Vollmeier, Edwin Shumate, Otto Kern, William Kehler, Anthony Bruntz, Henry Ray, Ernest Johnson, Mark Bryant, Raymond Elliott, Frank Allert and Raymond LeFever.

Any member of the Plank Road Community Home Bureau who is interested in learning how to make aluminum trays in an evening class is requested to call Mrs. Emil Wetland, Flatbush road, on or before Sept. 30.

Four-Way Tie in Wiltwyck Pro-Am; Gerlak's 70 Tops Pro Division

Twaalfskill Veteran Shares Lead in Four Places; Eddie Foy Has 71

Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill's sharp shooting veteran, dominated the sixth annual Wiltwyck Golf Club Pro-Am tournament Sunday by winning the pro division with a par-70 and sharing honors twice in the Pro-Am division.

He also teamed with District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn to cop the pro-Am event with a best-ball of 64.

Billy Van Aken of Wiltwyck and Dan Gormley, Albany ace, shot 75s to tie for amateur honors.

City Twi League Thanks Supporters

Ed Murphy, secretary of the City Baseball League, has addressed the following letter to the sports department:

Sept. 25, 1949
To the Baseball Fans
Of the City Baseball League
Friends:

I would like at this time, on behalf of President Jack Dawkins and all officers of the City Baseball League, to thank all those responsible for making the 1949 season the complete success that it was.

Thanks to the fans for their continued attendance and generous contributions; thanks also to John Matthews for use of his property on Cornell street which constitutes the Athletic Field on which the games are played.

We would like to extend thanks also to Ulster County Department of Highways for the use of the snow fence; the Board of Public Works for their complete cooperation in maintenance of the field; and for the banquet which was held at the close of the season.

Thanks also are extended to Bob Tentsell of the Barn for his courteous and efficient manner in making the banquet a splendid occasion; also to the players, umpires and speakers at the banquet.

The 1949 season was one of the best ever enjoyed in the history of the City League. The competition for the most part was keen and the playoffs were so interesting that they ranked with the best ever held.

Congratulations to the Jones Dairy and Chez Emile teams for their winning performances; and to the other teams who gave their best nightly.

Thanking you in advance, for the space allotted me and with hopes for a bigger and better 1950 Kingston City Baseball League season in the not too distant future.

Yours in sport,
EDDIE MURPHY,
Secretary
City Baseball League

Doubleheader Opens Y Autumn League

The Y.M.C.A. autumn basketball league launches its schedule with a doubleheader Tuesday on the Y court at 7:30, with eight teams set for a banner season.

The 7:30 attraction features Wiltwyck Motors against Schuler's Inn, while Slicker's Delivery and Village Restaurant are paired at 8:30.

The entire proceeds will go to the polo drive.

Gerlak finished a stroke ahead of Eddie Foy of Lake Placid, while Armand Farina of Schoenectady, bogied the last two holes, after firing consecutive birdies on the 13th, 14th and 15th holes, to finish with 72.

Miller Marusic, the Ball Eagle of Woolferts Roost, was well out of the money with 73-39-76. Gerlak was in 36 and in with 34. He blew five-foot putts on the 16th and 17th holes for birdies and bogied the 18th to finish in a flat-footed par.

Four Tie in Pro-Am
A four-way tie existed for first place in the pro-amateur division at 68. Gerlak shared first place with Armand Farina, of Twaalfskill, the city champion, and his brother Lou Boice. Mike Grande and Gene Conli of the Dutchess Country Club and Eddie Foy of Lake Placid and George Hughes of Twaalfskill also had 68s.

The 64 best ball registered by Gerlak and Lou Bruhn was five strokes less than any other tandem in the field. They were out in 31 and in with 33. The three-way deadlock for second place was among Scotty Robertson, Ontario and Bill Schaffrick, Fred Lux, Glenmore, and Henry Leiminger, and Walt Thiel of Catskill and A. B. Shufeldt of Twaalfskill.

Dick Demarest and Alex Miniply of Stamford Country Club shared second place in the amateur division with 76s. Don Hesner of the same club posted a 77. Maurice Davenport of Wiltwyck was runnerup among the local crop with 40-38-78. Watis Bailey of the home club fired a 79 and George Hughes of Twaalfskill had an 81.

Trailing Gerlak and Farina in the pro division were Mike Grandi of the Dutchess Country Club and Ben Toski, of Lee, Mass., with 73s. Charlie DeStefano, Poughkeepsie; Joe Songey, Red Hook; and Hap Duval, Stamford, posted 74s.

COLEMAN FORCED—DOERR HURT

Jerry Coleman of Yankees is forced at second as Bobby Doerr (left) of Red Sox whips ball (right) to first in time to nail Alie Reynolds whose hit to Third baseman Johnny Pesky started fifth inning action at Fenway Park. Doerr was hurt on this play and had to be helped from field but later continued playing. Sox won, 4-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Trip Schulers 6-2 to Clinch Shaughnessy Set

The Royal Grill softball powerhouse, undefeated in 20 consecutive City Softball League games, completed a grand slam of all seasonal laurels Sunday by trouncing Schuler's Inn, 6 to 2, to clinch the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Joe Enright pitched a brilliant three-hitter as the Royals climaxed one of the most successful seasons in local softball history. The winners collected eight hits off Eddie Lowe and clinched the game and title in the third and fourth innings with five runs.

Two hits and a walk and infield outs accounted for a pair of Royal runners in the third. They pushed across three more in the fourth on singles by Schuler, Uhl, Sasa and a timely double by Eddie Dasher. Singles by Joe Woods and Uhl produced the final margin in the sixth.

Schuler's picked up a tally in the third via Noble's single and two miscues, Carter's double, a sacrifice and a long fly set up their final run in the sixth.

Dasher Hero

Eddie Dasher was the battling hero for the Royals with his huge clearing double and single. C. Uhl produced two singles. Enright, who turned four and walked only one, scattered the three Schuler safeties among three different players.

Because of last minute injuries, George Uhl replaced Sonny Woods at first base, thereby halting Woods' brilliant endurance record at 52 straight games for the Royals.

A Royal Grill spokesman suggests the following as a fitting tag line for today's article: "Behind the able piloting of Manager Tom Coughlin, the Royal Grill team has completed a brilliant season, mainly because of his expert coaching and foresight." Take a bow, Tom!

Cleveland Amateurs Boast Great KO String

When the trio of Cleveland boxers invades the municipal auditorium Thursday to appear in the featured bouts on B'nai B'rith's card, local fans will see seasoned scrappers ready to take on the best in the amateurs.

This is attested to by Phil Goldstein of the Amateur Boxing Trainers Association of Cleveland, Ohio, who gives these records of his Simon pure mittmen.

Mickey Mars, 123 pounds, who will meet a New York city opponent—Age 20, sectional Olympic bantamweight champion. Lost in semi-finals at Boston to Bill Bosio, ultimate Olympic representative and winner of tryouts. In sectional tryouts at Toledo, Mars beat Bob Holliday, Cincinnati, twice national A.A.U. flyweight champion, also Chicago Tournament of Champions winner twice. Mars has won 59 of 64 bouts, 23 by knockouts.

Dominic Crowe, 135-pounds—Age 20; novice champ in 1948. Went in army and came back reached semi-finals in Golden Gloves. Won 18 of 25 bouts. Rated as one of the best crowd pleasers in the Midwest.

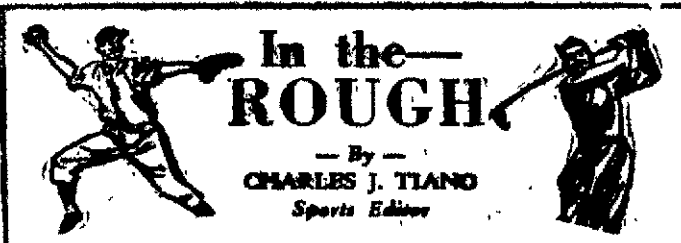

William Eason, 148 pounds—Age 17. Went to quarter-finals of Golden Gloves. Won 14 of 19 bouts. Extremely clever and a very hard hitter. Eason won last six bouts by knockouts.

Eason will meet Albert Anderson, Quonset Naval Station, who recently knocked out Jim Hardy, Adirondack A.A.U. champ. After seeing him box in Hudson, Bill Singer, B'nai B'rith boxing chairman, put him in a class with Ray "Sugar" Robinson as far as throwing a fast punch. "He hits harder and faster than any amateur middleweight I've seen in a long time," he remarked. Anderson was a runner-up in the national championships. He boxed on the Hawaiian team.

Meets Bobby Barnes Crowe is paired with Bobby Barnes, Buffalo lightweight, who contemplates turning professional in the near future. Barnes won by a knockout on the card two weeks ago. He holds the eastern U. S. and Canadian championships.

Libby Manzollito, of Jeffersonville, N. J., who outpointed Rufus Rodgers of Albany in a sensational preliminary on the last card, takes on Willie Smith, of Poughkeepsie, in a five rounder. Smith outpointed Phil Talorico of Utica, a heavyweight, preliminary pairs Bill Cook of Albany against Whitey Woodworth, 185 pounder of Ellenville.

Butch Albright, Kingston favorite, faces Bob Hornbeck of Poughkeepsie in the curtain raiser. Seven bouts are listed with the first starting at 9 p. m. Reserved seats may be ordered at 5018.

Quick capsule treatment of the DUSO football race: It will be a wild, wide-open affair with your guess just as good as ours. Whoever wins the DUSO pennant will have to beat Kingston, notwithstanding the Maroon's sluggish performance against a hard fighting, fierce tackling Highland eleven. And say, did you notice the sharp precision, snap and class of the "new" K.H.S. band. What a difference a couple of years can make!

Flotsam and Jetsam:

One of the most amusing incidents of the infant bowling season occurred at the Bowldrome a few nights ago when a couple of novice women squads wound up in a tie in their third game. The two young lady leadoffs bravely stepped up to start the roll-off, which consisted of one complete frame. Yep, you guessed it, the two damsels accounted for four gutter balls—which is par for the course. Ad Jones has been vacationing out where the tall corn grows for a couple of weeks. Or just about as far as he could possibly get from that $15,000 baseball debacle. Joe Magpino, Jr., of Kingston in a leading backfield star with Norwich University. Bill Kitano, one of the all-time K.H.S. fullback greats, is a freshman candidate at Lehigh.

Alex Geriak, the Twaalfskill pro, has always insisted that there is no great basic difference in the mechanics involved in a baseball and golf swing. Ralph Kiner, the powerful Pirate slugger, one of the mighty few individualistic players, points up that theory. He holds the bat directly in front of him, straight up and down, swats at the ball with his wrists and forearms, adopting a perfect golf swing for baseball. Instead of using the deadly level swings that belonged to immortals like Shoeless Joe Jackson, Lefty O'Doul, Paul Waner and other remarkable hitters, Kiner rifles the ball into the left field stands simply by uncocking his wrists. This buggy whip, or twist of the wrists, enables him to hit the ball at the last instant, after the pitch has done everything it is supposed to do. It gives him the tremendous advantage of not having to commit himself early.

Puncho Gonzales has turned professional. No doubt the tennis champ wants large quantities of green stuff while he's still young and can enjoy it. Now he's Puncho, the powerful Pirate slugger, which is the inevitable fate of most of us. Mrs. Morris Dauchy, the crack Dutchess Country Club golfer, recently led the women's mark for the James Baird State Park course with an 84. Mrs. Dauchy canned six pars. She had 44 for the first nine and came in with 49.

With the Cleveland Indians out of the race, the guy who seems to be in for the toughest winter is that flagpole sitter, who vowed he wouldn't come down until the Indians hit first place. Here's a suggestion for Charley Lupica. Say to yourself, "Well, it was a silly thing to do in the first place. First place? Did someone say first place? Goody, then I can come down!"

Wiltwyck caddies got a surprise in their annual tournament when Jerry Wells staged a sensational upset to defeat John Gleason, the favorite, 5 and 4 in the finals. Gleason led 2-up for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole playoff, carding a 77 against Wells' 79. Jerry's putter was hot in the next round for a 36, while Gleason slipped to 41 and Wells was 3-up at the end of 27 holes. He took the 28th and 29th and halved the next three to win 5 and 4.

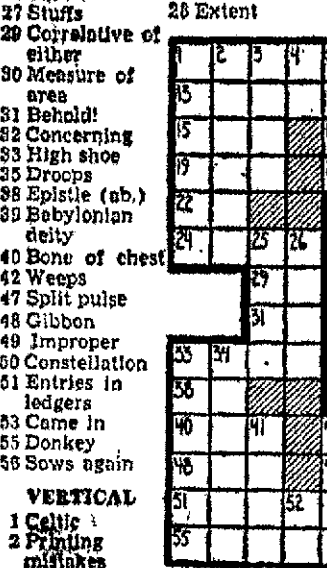

Jason Gourmas says the City Softball League was a huge success. Eleven teams started the campaign and each played a complete schedule. Perhaps the greatest upset was Barclay Knitting's 11-4 conquest of a formidable Potter team. In his last pitching assignment of the season, Big Ben Toffel of B'nai B'rith outthrew Eddie Lowe of Schuler's Inn, 1-0. Each allowed only two hits. Toffel pitched like the Big Boy of the Catskill Appleknocker era when he was the undisputed pitching star of the day. It is a matter of history that the Royal Grill went through the schedule with a perfect 20-0 record, thus becoming the second squad in history to achieve such a feat. The first, of course, was the 1937 Appleknocker outfit.

Too Tame
Lewiston, Idaho (AP) — Gene Rambo makes his living aboard the racing backs of horses and autos. He's one of the top professionals cowboys in the country. At Ellensburg, Wash., recently he "tried that game called golf" and suffered a wrenched knee. "Swung too hard, I guess," he remarked. Rambo and a friend played just nine holes. "Everybody came up and passed us," he said. "We just quit and laid down and rested."

The National Safety Council says horse travel was more dangerous than is automobile travel today with about 30 fatalities per 100 million miles of horse travel in 1909 (the peak of such travel in the United States) compared with seven deaths today for each nine holes. "Everybody came up

Michigan-Stanford Tilt Headlines College Football Slate Saturday

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Michigan and Notre Dame, college football's fearsome one-two punch, move to the Pacific coast this week to find out if the far westers really are on the rebound. The top-ranked Wolverines go against Stanford, one of the coast's surprise "Big Three" of the young season. The Fighting Irish have a lift with Washington. The back-baked Pacific states, who have been easy intersectional pickings since the war, showed a lot of grit and gusto Saturday in scoring three important victories. This brought rise to talk that perhaps the coast is ready to reclaim its old position of gridiron might. Stanford rolled over Harvard, no giant but a fairly good eastern eleven, 44-0. Southern California jarred a Navy team of great ex-

... watch it vanish under Packard's famed "self-controlling" Limousine Ride!

Until you've experienced the silent, gliding restfulness of this roomy Packard—you're just not up-to-date on fine car comforts!

Packard calls it the "Limousine Ride" because many of its advancements were first developed for the magnificent Packard Limousine. But the first and foremost secret of its superiority lies in Packard's advanced "self-controlling" suspension system.

"Self-controlling" means it compensates automatically for changes in load and road. "Self-controlling" means it combines relaxing smoothness with firm, level-keeled roadability. "Self-controlling" means it won't develop "baby-buggy bounce" in its later years! Come in—do your judging at the wheel!

*State and local taxes, if any, and white sidewalls (as shown above), extra. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining areas because of transportation charges.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Sept. 24—Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Belleville, N. J., have moved from there to their newly purchased home, the former Irving Rathgeb house on Tillson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Jacques and sons, John and Howard with the latter's father, John Chadwick, drove last week from Kingston, Ontario, Canada, for a couple days visit with Mrs. Jacques' sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thompson, Vineyard avenue, Mr. Chadwick remained for a stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Tillson who had spent the summer at their home here left Wednesday for the winter at their home in St. Petersburg, Fla. They planned on spending 10 days sightseeing on the way south.

Mrs. Laura Hunt, Poughkeepsie, spent Sunday with her father, Irving Churchwell.

Postmaster and Mrs. Nathan D. Williams returned Wednesday after a 10-day vacation on Indian Lake. Mr. Williams did not report much success in fishing.

Mrs. Mary Tarrant is a patient in the West Point Hospital.

Mrs. Hiram Hasbrouck, Washington, D. C., has been a guest of her cousins, Mrs. S. D. Farnham and Mrs. Thomas Sears, en route to her former home in Boston.

About 300 persons attended the Republican held Saturday at the firemen's recreation center at Oakes. Supervisor Jacob J. Donovan introduced Senator Arthur H. Wicks, J. Edward Conway, Fred Stang, Edward Murray, Rodney Chipp, Kingston, and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin, who addressed the group. Refreshments were served and music was furnished by the Doodledorers of Kingston.

Mrs. Dora R. Haight and Miss Eliza Ives Raymond went to Salisbury Friday and attended the wedding of Miss Cornelia Ives to Edward Howard of Delongville. The ceremony took place in the First Presbyterian Church of Delongville with reception for 100 guests at the home of the bride in Salisbury. Mrs. Everett Ives brought Miss Raymond and Mrs. Haight back and remained over until Thursday.

American sources in Germany reported that more than 200 German scientists have gone to Russia—some eagerly, some forcibly recruited—to work on atomic energy.

Without the help of German scientists, "one high U. S. official said yesterday, 'Russia could never have developed an atomic weapon so soon.'"

In the Soviet zone of Germany tens of thousands of unwilling German workers are reported mining pitchblende, a source of uranium. Every ounce is flown to Russia.

Among German scientists working for the Russians three were reported to Prof. Gustav Hertz, who built Germany's wartime cyclotron for smashing the atom; Dr. Robert Doepel, a prominent Leipzig physicist; and Dr. Ludwig Bellaguard, who worked with other scientists during the war trying to develop an atomic pile for a German A-bomb.

Although the V-2 was the last rocket model used extensively on the battlefield, rumors were thick at the end of the war that Nazi engineers had worked their way through successive experimental models to a V-12, capable of reaching America's east coast.

Toronto Swimmer Wins Marathon

Lake George, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Ben Gazzelle of Toronto is the 1949 winner of the Lake George marathon swim.

The 38-year-old swimming instructor negotiated the 20-mile course in just one second under six hours Saturday to take $1,000 in first prize money. He also picked up $125 for winning five of the eight laps.

Henry Pierr of Brooklyn finished second in six hours and 52 minutes. He was followed by Charles Grover of Cambridge, Mass., a senior at Harvard Law School who finished in seven hours.

Bill Sadlo, 41-year-old New York city school teacher was the only other finisher among 10 starters. He completed the grind in seven hours and 35 minutes.

Mrs. Betty Bohn, Brooklyn grandmother who was the only woman entered, dropped out after four laps.

Parolee Is Arraigned
New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A 38-year-old parolee was arraigned in New York County Court yesterday on charges of trying to kidnap a three-year-old child in a baby carriage. The prisoner, identified as Joseph Ehrlichman, of Brooklyn, was charged with wheeling away Antoinette Stoffel, three, after the child's mother left her outside a grocery store Saturday morning.

A friend of the mother, Helen Stoffel, saw the man, and shouted, bringing the mother out of the store. A crowd grabbed the man and held him for police.

Will Attend Series
Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Ty Cobb and the new Mrs. Cobb will honeymoon at the World Series. The 62-year-old Georgia Peach of baseball's Hall of Fame and 39-year-old Mrs. Frances Cass were married Saturday. It was Cobb's second marriage and the bride's third.

Foreigners Leave China
Abroad S. S. Gen. W. H. Gordon, Sept. 26 (AP)—The first large-scale exodus of foreigners from Communist China was under way today. This ship of the American President Lines is carrying 1,219 from Shanghai. Now heading for Hong Kong, the ship has not encountered any naval units or aircraft which enforce the Nationalist blockade of the Chinese Communist coast. Both Nationalists and Communists have granted the General Gordon safe conduct.

New Cases Reported
New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Nineteen new cases of infantile paralysis and one additional death from the disease were reported today by the City Health Department. The death, in Richmond, brought to 150 the total fatalities this year. Today's report showed three new cases in the Bronx, 11 in Brooklyn, and five in Queens. The number of cases reported this year total 1,990, compared with 421 for the corresponding period last year.

because of a "threat" of the loss of his job as street superintendent by the mayor and other members of the village board.

At this point a recess was taken and the village board went into executive session.

When the hearing was again continued it was stated that no further testimony was to be offered by Stapleton and a similar statement was also made by Lounsbury.

The board then went into executive session again and reinstated Bennett to his position as street superintendent of the village. The board's action came on a motion of Trustee Siegel that "on the evidence adduced and in view of the contradictory testimony of James Van Wagner, that Charles H. Bennett be reinstated to the position of motor vehicle operator." The motion was seconded by Trustee Mitchell and carried.

After reinstating Bennett to his position, the board then suspended Superintendent James H. Van Wagner and that matter will be given a hearing later.

Members of the village board are Mayor Henry Schipp, Silas DeFew, Kenneth Mitchell, Joseph Siegel and Joseph Gentile. Siegel and Gentile are the two Republican members on the board.

New Paltz Legion Ladies Resume Meeting State

New Paltz, Sept. 24—The first meeting after the summer recess of Sullivan-Shaler Post 176, American Legion Ladies' Auxiliary was presided over this week by Mrs. Edna L. Brannigan, president, who reported on the recent state convention in Buffalo.

Mrs. Alice Hornbeck was installed as new treasurer to take the place of Mrs. Marie Parker who resigned because of illness in her family. A new member was welcomed, Miss Dorothy McCormick.

There was delight over announcement that the auxiliary received first prize for the best scrapbook on Venezuela prepared by Mrs. Preston D. Bennett, Jr., of Gardiner.

Contributions were voted for the polio and leper funds. The Good Fellowship of Ohioville presented the auxiliary with three dozen knives, forks and spoons for which the organization expressed deep appreciation. A picnic is planned for Sunday, Oct. 2, to be held on the Rod & Gun Clubs grounds for members of the American Legion, the auxiliary and their families.

It was announced that President Brannigan would attend the Third District Conference at Albany, also two committee chairmen Mrs. Alice Hornbeck, child welfare and Mrs. Beatrice Knickerbocker, rehabilitation. Refreshments were enjoyed after the business session.

Issues Take Step

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Fares and service on the Municipal Transit Lines are shaping up as major issues in the November city election. Democratic Mayor William O'Dwyer, who is running for reelection, made public yesterday a report from William Reid, chairman of the Board of Transportation, defending the operation and increased fares.

Two Injured When 'Cycle Upsets Sunday

Marie Snow, 16, of Kingston Point and Russell O. Goodrich, 24, Canton, Ohio, were injured when the motorcycle on which they were riding upset on Ferry street Sunday afternoon, according to the police.

The report at 4:50 p. m. said that the wheels of the cycle became fouled in the car tracks near the Miron Lumber Company as Goodrich was driving east on the street.

The girl was admitted at Kingston Hospital for treatment of lacerations of the legs and injuries to the left shoulder and elbow.

Goodrich, who, police said, is stationed at Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn., suffered lacerations of the face and legs, and was treated at the hospital and discharged.

Officer Francis Fagan reported the accident and Officers James Burns and William Hanley were assigned to investigate.

Thomas Expected To Fly to Hospital

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A rescue plane is expected to fly to the Indian border to pick up Lowell Thomas, injured in Tibet when thrown from a horse, as he arrives in a sedan chair after a 16-day trek.

Lowell Thomas, Jr., has cabled from the Tibetan village of Gyantse that his father would be taken by bearers on the long march to the other side of the Himalayan Mountains.

The New York office of the author and radio newscaster and commentator said yesterday the U. S. Air Force planned to send a rescue plane as soon as Thomas reaches the Himalayan state of Bhutan at the Tibetan frontier.

An air strip was built there during the war. Plane flights into Tibet are banned.

Thomas, accompanied by his son, was injured while returning from a visit to Lhasa, the Tibetan capital. The accident occurred while they were crossing a 17,000-foot-high Himalayan Mountain pass last week. Thomas apparently suffered a broken thigh bone.

The air force plane is scheduled to fly from the rescue center at Dhargan, in Saudi Arabia. And take Thomas from Bhutan to New Delhi for hospitalization.

Thomas is reported to be bringing a special message to President Truman from the Dalai Lama, boy ruler of the fabled country.

Hughes Announces Pro-Dulles Group

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Formation of the Independent Citizens Committee for Senator John Foster Dulles was announced yesterday by Charles Evans Hughes, Jr.

Hughes, a Republican lawyer and former solicitor general of the United States, will be one of the co-chairmen of the state-wide group.

Other co-chairmen listed for the move to aid the Republican Senate candidate were:

Roger W. Straus, long active here in movements to improve relations between racial and religious groups; Dr. Alan Valentine, president of the University of Rochester; Mrs. Basil Harris, of Rye, president of the Carroll Clubs of New York city; and Mrs. Martha Eddy, of Ithaca, chairman of the women's committee of the New York State Fair.

Other officers announced by Hughes were:

Treasurer — George H. Sibley, and secretary—Henry V. Poor.

Both Sibley and Poor are former presidents of the New York State Young Republican Club.

Hughes, whose late father served as chief justice of the United States and as Republican governor of New York, said more than 200 civic leaders in both the Republican and Democratic parties in the state already have joined the committee.

Committee headquarters is in the Hotel Roosevelt, New York.

The United States Library of Congress contains more than eight million volumes and pamphlets.

Don't Let Cold Weather Catch You Unprepared!

Fordie (in the fur coat) would have saved himself a small bank account if he'd REMEMBERED to bring his car in NOW — for a check-up or overhaul. There's many things that can be done to make winter driving more of a pleasure — if done in time!

Confidence WHEN YOU BUILD!

GARAGE

Why rent a garage when you can own one? A sturdy weather-tite garage can be built with the rent money. We'll help you with your plans, supply the needed materials, and arrange painless payments. Prices are lower.

ENCLOSED PORCHES

Convert your porch into a cozy sun room for the winter months. It's the most inexpensive way we know to add an extra room that can double as a guest room. Prices are lower.

Rely On SCHRYVER'S

Building a home is one of life's most important steps. You've dreamed of it for a long while. You've carefully saved your money and very likely you have even bought a lot. When it's completed you want a well constructed, attractive home of which you can be proud. Prices are lower.

Our advice and 41 years of experience, together with our good building materials, can make your dream house all you want it to be. Talk over your plans with us. Financing arranged. Prices are lower.
